U.K. GOVERNMENT MOVES TO HALT STRIKE SPREAD

LONDON (UP)—The British government tonight stepped into the paralyzing London dock strikes in an attempt to prevent their spread to all of Great Britain. British Labor Minister Sir Walter Monckton called on both employers and union representatives to meet him Friday. The government intervened after leaders of the National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers Union (NASD) strike, which has idled 21,640 stevedores, threatened to extend it nationwide. Such a move could cut this island nation's lifelines as effectively as enemy submarines.

'HAZEL' ROARS NORTH

Carolinas Batten Down

MIAMI (UP)—A mammoth Atlantic hurricane, its winds up to 130 miles an hour, hurtled toward the Carolinas where residents were given only a few hours to prepare for the storm.

After cutting a swath across western Haiti, leaving many dead and hundreds homeless, Hurricane Hazel picked up speed and was expected to hit against the U.S. mainland tonight.

At 11 a.m. residents of the coast of North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia were warned that the mighty blow was only hours away.

A special weather bureau advisory issued at 2 p.m. (EST) placed Hurricane Hazel about 270 miles east of Melbourne, Fla. It was roaring along at between 25 and 30 miles an hour—express train speed for a tropical storm—in a north-northwesterly direction.

The hurricane was kicking up "phenomenal" high waves, according to a radio report from one of the hurricane hunter planes in the area.

The biggest vessel reported in the storm's path was the luxury passenger liner, Queen of Bermuda, a British vessel with a speed of 19.5 knots.

Planes from the Coast Guard air station at Elizabeth City, N.C., took off shortly after noon to drop warnings to all surface craft in the inland waterway and offshore in the Carolinas area.

HAITI HIT
The Haitian vice-consul here reported today the town of Jeremie in southwestern Haiti was "destroyed" by hurricane Hazel. The fate of Jeremie's 11,000 population was not known.

The consul said there had been no official reports from Aux Cayes. He said he does not know how any accurate casualty reports could have come from Aux Cayes because all communications with the town had been cut off since Tuesday night when the hurricane struck.

Hitler Declared Officially Dead
BERCHTESGADEN, Germany (Reuters)—Hitler is dead beyond all doubt, the district court here announced today.

The court, which is dealing with a request by an Austrian court to issue an official death certificate, said: "According to all investigations carried out so far there can be no doubt that Hitler committed suicide on April 30, 1945, in his Berlin bunker chancellery."

The Austrian court and relatives of Hitler and Eva Braun, his bride of a day, have asked for the certificate to enable settlement of property claims.

ANOTHER STRAIT CHALLENGER?
Race Flo, Marilyn 'Any Place' Says English Channel Swimmer

An English girl long-distance swimmer appeared today as a likely contestant in the proposed $10,000 match swim across Juan de Fuca Strait next summer.

Brenda Fisher, 27-year-old blonde English channel swimmer has issued a challenge to swim against Florence Chadwick, Marilyn Bell and Winnie Roach Leuzler at "any time, any place."

Brenda, twice winner of the women's section of the international English Channel swim, said she'd prefer to swim against them in the Channel because it's her home water, but told a Canadian Press interviewer in England she's prepared to meet them anywhere.

Status of next year's Juan de Fuca swim has not been finally settled, but Miss Chadwick, who challenged Marilyn Bell of Toronto to the $10,000 race, has made it plain she would not object to any other competitors.

Up to the present time the committee handling 17-year-old Marilyn's affairs has not given a final "yes" on the swim proposal, but has it under consideration, Miss Chadwick intends at attempt the Strait in 1955 whether there is competition or not.

However, there is every indication Miss Bell will take part in the Strait swim.

Today in Toronto, commenting on Brenda's challenge Marilyn said she is "not very much interested" in swimming the English Channel against the English girl.

But Marilyn added she is looking forward to swimming Juan de Fuca against Florence next year, which could mean

Canadian Proposal Approved

Vishinsky, Martin Discuss New Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia was reliably reported today to have offered to support a Western plan for five-power disarmament talks if the sponsors would accept some apparently minor drafting changes.

Diplomatic quarters said the Soviet deputy foreign minister, Andrei Vishinsky, had stated his position in a meeting with Health Minister Paul Martin of Canada, who laid the Western plan before the 60-nation political committee Wednesday.

Britain, France and the United States already have announced their support of the plan. For this reason, Martin was expected to consult them before accepting the Vishinsky amendments.

Two Changes
The plan calls for reviving the sub-committee of the UN disarmament commission, which sought unsuccessfully last spring to break the East-West disarmament deadlock. Members of this group are Canada, Britain, the United States, Russia and France.

Vishinsky's amendments would make two changes, both designed to place greater emphasis on the latest Soviet disarmament proposals made Sept. 30. One of the amendments would change the title of the Western resolution to include a mention of the Soviet proposals. The other would mention the Soviet proposals specifically in directing the disarmament commission to study the arms problem once more.

Gun Carelessness Killed Hunter; Sooke Boy Absolved of All Blame

NIXON FOLLOWS WILSON IN 'WHO...ME?' ROUTINE

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP)—"Who the hell did that?" assaulted the ears of television listeners Wednesday night as Vice-President Richard Nixon came to the end of a political speech here.

Switchboards of television stations and newspapers were flooded by listeners demanding to know who made the remark. "The station doesn't know who made the remark, but it was not a member of the TTV crew."

Nixon said he made no such remark. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson apologized Wednesday for his "kennel-dog" remark which caused clamor throughout the nation (See Page 2).

Victim of Gangland Ride Lives to Tell Ironic Tale

NEW YORK (AP)—A gangland-style ride Wednesday night in Little Neck, on Long Island, ended with one man slain, another wounded, a third man held—and the self-described intended victim alive to tell the story.

Police said they found Dominick Sorrese dead of a bullet wound in the head; Rosario Marceca wounded in the chest with a slug from his own revolver; Andrea Bommarito, the driver, with a gun in his hand; and Anthony Governante with a rope around his neck.

Authorities said Governante told this story: The three men invited him to drive over and see a mutual friend in Little Neck.

Governante got in the front seat of the car with Bommarito and Sorrese. In the back seat was Marceca.

Death of Sooke logger A. I. "Bud" Nelson, 22, was ruled accidental today after his 16-year-old hunting companion, Jimmy Ducharme, told a coroner's jury Nelson was struck by a bullet from a gun they were using as a rope while climbing a cliff.

In his panic immediately after the fatality Ducharme said Nelson fell from a cliff, and didn't mention the gun episode. The fatal wound was discovered Sunday when the body was being carried out of the woods.

"He (Nelson) had hold of the barrel and I the butt, and when he pulled and I pulled the gun went off," the youth said today.

VERDICT REJECTED
The jury's first verdict—accidental death—was rejected by Coroner E. C. Hart this forenoon because it did not absolve Ducharme specifically.

The recorded verdict blames Nelson's death on "the deceased's carelessness" and absolves Ducharme of all blame. Evidence showed that Ducharme, stepson of Thomas Mal-

Political Patronage Charged
VANCOUVER (BUP)—Charge that two provincial cabinet ministers used "political patronage" to fill government jobs was made Wednesday at the convention of the B.C. Trade Union Congress.

Lands Minister Robert E. Sommers and Works Minister P. A. Gagliardi were named in the charge leveled by E. P. O'Connor, secretary of the 9,000-member B.C. Government Employees' Association.

O'Connor accused the two ministers of "putting their own men in government jobs."

"They have blocked some normal appointments and have dispensed political patronage by installing men of their own choosing to fill the vacancies," O'Connor said.

O'Connor's attack was touched off by a debate on a resolution which asked the TUC—the provincial wing of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada—to put pressure on the provincial government for full bargaining rights to B.C. civil servants. The resolution was unanimously endorsed. (See story page 31.)

ROCKET PLANE WOULD 'COAST' ACROSS U.S.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UP)—Bell Aircraft Corp. scientist, Dr. Walter Dornberger, predicted last night the development "in 10 years" of a rocket-driven commercial airliner that would hurtle from New York to San Francisco in 1 hour and 15 minutes.

"The engine of the commercial rocket airliner, in its New York-San Francisco flight, would operate only four and a half minutes," he said. "The plane would literally coast the rest of the way."

Storm Keeps Airmen's Bodies On Arrowsmith
Fierce Winds Hamper Operations

PARKSVILLE—A fierce mountain storm today hampered efforts to bring out the bodies of three airmen who perished in the crash of an RCAF Expediter on the slopes of a Vancouver Island peak.

Gale force winds up to 70 miles per hour whipped the tiny camp at the 5,100-foot level of Mount Arrowsmith forcing cancellation of plans to fly out the three bodies by helicopter and making hazardous the continuing search for the body of the fourth man aboard the twin-engine aircraft.

Air force officials said there was no chance anyone had survived the crash. Wreckage of the plane, that disappeared Sunday on a flight from Vancouver to Tofino on the west coast of the island, was found on the snow-covered peak Wednesday.

The five-man search party at the scene of the crash reported by walkie-talkie today that they had spent a large part of the night clinging to rocks and seeking shelter on the ice-covered pass where they had set up camp.

F. Sgt. J. R. Jameson, head of the RCAF search party at the crash scene, reported that about 35 to 40 men would be required to lower the bodies down the treacherous mountain slopes.

Sqdn. Ldr. George Sheahan, the searchmaster in charge of the operation, said an eight-man party from the RCAF base at Comox had left for the crash scene to aid the party already there.

FOR KENNEL DOG CRACK

Wilson Says He's Sorry

CHICAGO (AP)—Defense Secretary Wilson said Wednesday night "I am sorry I made inept remarks" about dogs while talking about unemployed workers.

These remarks, he said in a speech at a Republican fund raising dinner, "were distorted by our left-wing opponents."

Saying he wanted to "set the record straight," Wilson told his audience that even Republican Governor William Stratton of Illinois was "disturbed by some incomplete press reports of some recent remarks I made in Detroit."

Stratton earlier Wednesday issued a statement urging that the secretary's speech in Chicago be canceled because of Wilson's reference in a Detroit press conference to bird dogs which hunt for their food and kennel dogs which "sit on their fanny and yell."

An aide said at the time that Stratton would boycott the dinner. However, the governor announced later in the day that he not only would attend but would introduce Wilson.

"In the first place," Wilson said, "I admit that I made a mistake — an unfortunate mistake — bringing up those bird dogs at the same time I was talking about people. There are times when my remarks get me into trouble—especially in political matters—and I seem to be in trouble now."

"The way my remarks were distorted by our left-wing opponents certainly looks terrible in print. I admit that."

"So, right here, right now, I want to say to the American people that I am sorry I made inept remarks which were subject to misinterpretation.

"But there is one thing that I will not do, one thing that I know you would not want me to do. It is this: I will not let our political assailants get away with the charge that I am unsympathetic with the problems of workers or that the vicious interpretation they have put on my statements represent in any manner my feelings for or philosophy toward the working men and women of this country."

Improper Cargo Loading Blamed For Ship Disaster

NORFOLK, Va. (UP)—A survivor has blamed the capsizing of the ore ship Mormackite in an Atlantic gale with a loss of 37 lives directly on improper loading of the freighter's cargo.

Stewart Charles Henry, 54, of the Bronx, N.Y., one of 11 survivors among a crew of 48, told a Coast Guard board of inquiry that the cargo shifted in a storm last Thursday because it was stacked in a pyramid.

He said the ship would not have capsized and sunk if the cargo of iron ore had been stowed evenly instead of in a pyramid for the voyage from Victoria, Brazil, to Baltimore, Md.

Henry was among nine survivors who testified during the first two days of the hearings being conducted at a hospital where the 11 are recovering from effects of spending 50 hours on makeshift life rafts.

Russ Accept Trieste Pact; Surprise West

Mild Vishinsky Gives Approval

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Russians have surprised the West again by giving an approving nod to the Western-sponsored Trieste settlement. The Soviet Union had been expected to blast the agreement.

Soviet recognition of the Oct. 5 London accord dividing the Trieste territory between Italy and Yugoslavia was conveyed Wednesday night in a letter from delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky to the United Nations Security Council.

Noting that the agreement was reached as a result of an understanding between Italy and Yugoslavia, Vishinsky said it would "promote the establishment of normal relations between them and thus contribute towards a relaxation in that part of Europe."

In view of this, "the Soviet government takes cognizance of the above-mentioned agreement."

In the past, the Russians had demanded a full say, as signatories of the 1947 Italian peace treaty, in any final disposition of Trieste.

British and American troops, meanwhile, continued their withdrawal from zone A of the Trieste territory despite a disagreement Wednesday that halted a survey to fix the new frontier.

DEMOCRATS IN ALASKA MAKE IT A LANDSLIDE

WASHINGTON (UP)—Democratic hopes of capturing Congress in the Nov. 2 election surged higher today as the rout of Republicans in the Alaska territorial contest took on landslide proportions.

Late returns indicated Democrats had won 22 of the 24 house seats, reversing a similar GOP sweep of two years ago.

Leery France Asks Same Arms as Germany

PARIS (UP)—France today proposed that weapons for both France and a rearmend West Germany be turned out by the same plants when the Germans are put back into uniform.

The plan was put forward as a trial balloon in advance of next week's top-level conferences at which the western powers will work out the detailed arrangements for German rearmament.

The French scheme would be to create a common arms pool from the products of the same factories for the French and German armies.

This would be in line with Premier Pierre Mendes-France's desires to keep the tightest possible reins on a rearmend Germany. France wants assurance of maximum guarantees against runaway German arms manufacture.

The French will argue, in support of the scheme, that it would strengthen European factory capacity and reduce Europe's dependence on United States arms aid.

A government spokesman said "that idea definitely is in the air." Other sources said French experts already are working out details of the arms pool plan for presentation to the other eight nations in the western alliance.

Authorities here doubted, however, whether the idea of the old-time enemies turning out weapons from the same assembly lines would be acceptable. These sources said Mendes-France tried to plant the same idea "on stony ground" at the recent nine-power London conference.

The French premier also was expected to roll out other bold new policy ideas as a result of a secret meeting with French rightist leader Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

The premier and the wartime resistance leader, who has become the oracle of the French right wing, met for 70 minutes Wednesday at a small hotel. No one but their closest advisers

Central Jail for 'Incorrigible' Prisoners Approved by Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet has approved the idea of a central institution for "incorrigible" prisoners in federal penitentiaries.

The ministers, an informant said, gave approval in principle Wednesday to a recommendation to this effect made by Maj. Gen. R. B. Gibson, commissioner of penitentiaries, in his report on the Aug. 13-15 fires and riot at Kingston penitentiary.

Gen. Gibson's report recommended either:

1. Establishment of a special institution for the relatively small group of so-called incorrigibles among Canada's 5,000 penal inmates, divorced from existing penitentiaries.

2. "Security" blocks adjacent to existing institutions but divorced from them physically.

The 5,500-word report on the Kingston disturbances, made public today, did not pin down blame for either the rioting or fires on any particular convicts but suggested incorrigibles were to blame.

Gibson said no more than a quarter of the 800-man prison population was involved, and of these many did not take an active part.

FRENCH HORN, VIOLIN, PIANO AND BRAHMS

Victoria Musicians Delight With Unusual Instrument Array

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

The mellow French horn, brilliant violin and percussive piano might be expected to form an unusual blend of tonal textures and colorings. However, as played by three highly accomplished Victoria musicians in the Brahms' Trio II, Opus 40, the result could be described as an unforgettable musical experience.

This was the season's first concert sponsored by Victoria Musical Art Society, Wednesday night, and artists of the occasion were Corol McCartney, violin; Hans Stelzner, French horn, and Nora Haimberger, piano.

The large audience in Club Sirocco were deeply impressed and expressed their enthusiasm in persistent applause that brought the musicians back for a short, delightful encore trio by a Bach contemporary.

Incidentally, I believe many would have enjoyed hearing at least part of the Brahms number again, so lovely and so seldom heard is the music and so distinguished a performance did the three artists give.

We already know Mr. Stelzner as a master of that most difficult and temperamental of instruments, the French horn, but the pure, steady tone, graceful phrasing, and clean tonguing that brought about a fine precision of attack, heightened admiration last night. One became alert for every phrase in which the horn was dominant instrument.

Greatest virtuosity has been written into the violin part and Mrs. McCartney was nothing short of amazing, both in her trio performance and in that long, searching and challenging solo, the Bach Chaconne for violin alone.

She has achieved both the style and technical mastery of the fully professional artist and moves with poise and suavity through passages of complicated double stopping, airy harmonies, and rapid and intricate bowing and fingering.

One small criticism of the Trio would be the fact that one was overly conscious of individual performances but perhaps where music is written as this was, it is almost impossible to avoid the effect.

Miss Haimberger played the Beethoven Sonata, Opus 31, No. 3, bringing to it spirit and verve, and a powerful technique.

Kit Tip

EVEN BEFORE the turn of the century, polar and other explorers found that boxes of light, non-rusting aluminum gave their precious first-aid equipment more protection from rough usage and rough weather.

Manufacturers took the tip. Today, especially in factories where industrial processes create humid or corrosive conditions, aluminum boxes are used to keep first-aid kits in good shape.

In fact, aluminum is now popular for boxes to hold everything from tools to trout flies. And for countless other containers that must stay clean, bright, free from rust. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Military Participation in Cenotaph Rites Unchanged By Misunderstood Directive

By VICTOR J. MACKIE, Times Ottawa Reporter

OTTAWA—A flat denial that Hon. Ralph Campney had issued any directive to Canada's armed forces not to participate in cenotaph ceremonies with a religious content was issued from Mr. Campney's office today.

The defense minister has received numerous complaints and criticism of the alleged order based on an erroneous report published by a Toronto newspaper columnist. The letters were received at the minister's office during his absence in Europe. He is now drafting replies pointing out that he has issued no such order.

1953 DIRECTIVE

It is believed here that the furor over the alleged order has arisen due to an interpretation placed on a directive sent out to the various military commands in October, 1953, by the defense headquarters here.

The directive stated that in respect to Remembrance Day services no officer or man was to be ordered to attend services other than those of the group in which his own religious denomination was included. It added that if the local church authorities agreed to hold a combined religious service members of the forces might be required to participate in accordance with the Queen's Regulations.

Under the Queen's Regulations there is a provision which states that no man can be ordered to attend religious services other than services of his own denomination. He is free to attend any religious services he wishes to attend.

A directive regarding attendance at the Remembrance Day services next month is now being drafted. It will be issued shortly, it was learned here.

The Public Wants Facts

MAYOR HARRISON WOULD probably speak for a large number of Victorians if he criticized constructively the Civil Defense organization covering this community. He speaks for fewer Victorians when he says, "Civil Defense, as now operated, isn't worth a damn." And if he speaks for any Victorians at all when he seeks authority to invoke what he calls martial law in the event of an emergency, it is time the rest of Victoria sat up and tried to understand what the mayor is driving at.

The mayor says the board of which he is chairman has no intention of scrapping Civil Defense. It just wants to present its case forcibly so Ottawa will listen.

That is accomplished, presumably, by firing the staff, all but one stenographer, and then appointing an excellent and experienced former police officer, Mr. Roger Peachey, as a sort of caretaker.

The mayor's apparent anxiety over the need for local authority to start the operations of civil defense going is understandable. But the mayor exceeds any reasonable assumption of power if he believes such authority should carry with it the right to declare what he terms "martial law."

Martial law is a concept alien to the Commonwealth. There are, of course, occasions on which civilian authorities seek—and are granted under certain circumstances—the help of other than civil forces to restore or maintain law and order.

Tidy Up the Buttle Lake Issue

LATEST REPORTS on the B.C. Power Commission's plans for up-Island hydro expansion indicate that Upper Campbell Lake rather than Buttle will be dammed in the next major project to increase power output.

Although definite word has not been given, the clear implication is that previous thinking has been revised. Demands for power will be at least partially met by submarine cable from the Mainland. If a dam is constructed on Buttle, it will be a low level barrier, impounding water at a point no higher than present high water.

On this presumption—and an early announcement is expected to justify it—Buttle Lake may yet be saved as the scenic water jewel of Strathcona Park. It need not be turned into a bathtub from whose steep sides all beaches and shore levels have been removed.

But if Buttle is to be protected for posterity, more than this change in thinking by the Power Commission is necessary. Definite legislative action must be taken to revise amendments made to the Strathcona Park Act.

Mr. Butler Is Helping Us

THE OTHER DAY, ON THIS continent, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, R. A. Butler, impressed upon United States listeners the urgency of encouraging freer trade.

On that occasion he pointed out that Britain would rather do business with the western democracies, particularly the U.S., than expand its exchange of non-strategic materials with countries either themselves communist in government or subject to communist domination. But Britain, he pointed out, had to trade and was forced to do business where business existed.

The same official has given a similar message to restrictionists within his own party during the British Conservative conference at Blackpool last week. In the course of his statement he emphasized the necessity of impressing Canada with Britain's desire for freer trade.

In his words: "It is vital to carry Canada with us."

The point is of particular interest at this stage when protectionist elements in this country are again raising their voices to seek the reduction, when a situation gets out of hand.

It seemed rather unnecessary for the mayor to declare that "We don't want to shoot anybody, but we want to be in a position to do something if an emergency arises here." The denial comes oddly after his remarks on the San Francisco fire during which it had been necessary to "shoot a small number" to establish order.

Since he doesn't want this power, why talk about martial law? For that matter, why emphasize the forcible presentation of Victoria's case to make Ottawa listen? Victorians have not such short memories that they forget other instances—steamboat service to San Francisco, enforcement of terms of union or alternative compensation instead—when the mayor has struck attitudes he believed would make Ottawa listen.

The mayor appears to have done nothing to clarify the mists about civil defense in this area. The public is still wondering about the dismissal of CD personnel and what may be behind it. It is still wondering what alternative the mayor has to offer for the work that was being done under previous direction.

The citizens would be more impressed if His Worship talked less about the need for a big club and if he said what he thinks should be done to give Victoria a quick and efficient means of coping with the emergency of enemy attack and possible sabotage. Before anyone is given a big club, the people ought to know what he intends to do with it.

The amendments should rule out the possibility of artificial inundation above a certain low-level dam limit. And the act should be altered to permit consolidation of territory within the park itself, including one section of Buttle which extends beyond the park boundaries. The Forbidden Plateau should be brought within the preserve and certain areas valuable as timber limits but of negligible worth for parks purposes might very properly be dropped from it.

Such provisions seem desirable for the generations of the future. Moreover, the park will benefit by remaining under its own act, rather than being brought under the general terms of the Forest Act sections relating to parks. The opportunity exists today to tidy up the loose ends left dangling by the apparent change in Power Commission planning.

The Buttle Lake and Strathcona Park question should not be bundled up and placed on the shelf until attention has been given to these details. The public wants the area's preservation assured, not left in jeopardy by legislation as it now stands.

Before that is attempted, the true believers in EDC should make sure that they realize the consequences. They must not imagine that because London was a success after the failure of EDC, there could be another success after the failure of London. London was a success because there did not exist a real alternative to EDC, namely, a European system in which Britain is engaged as a principal power.

There is no alternative to this alternative—none, that is to say, that the supporters of EDC would care to think about. If the London agreement is rejected, or if it is spoiled, the French Assembly will not be offered still another nine-power plan.

France will be in the position of having rejected not only a reconciliation with Germany, which would be very serious, but also a European alliance with Great Britain, which would be disastrous. After that, not much would be left of the substance and almost nothing of the spirit of the Atlantic alliance.

A spoiling operation, carried out under the banners of European integration, would in fact destroy the only European system which can now be formed. A failure to ratify in the hope of renegotiating the London agreements would not produce a negotiation or an agreement. But it would isolate France. The Assembly showed recognition of this

Mr. Butler sees the dangers of these barriers and is well aware of the harm they can do to the cause of trade in the world and in the Commonwealth. As he picks up the cudgels against protectionists within his own party, he is performing a service for Canadians. We benefit as the impediments to trade are knocked down.

Not the richest of the provinces, the four contain natural resources which have not yet been fully exploited. New Brunswick has water-power potentials to be developed, particularly if full benefit is to be obtained from new mineral discoveries, Nova Scotia, where coal production is a major factor in economic life, is seeking new uses for the output of its faltering industry.

Prince Edward Island's production efforts are largely confined to agriculture, but there are many secondary industries which must be investigated and promoted in order to widen the basis of its economy. Newfoundland, since becoming a part of Canada, has enjoyed a boom in logging, mining and other industries. While fishing remains a major occupation there has been great diversification and consequently greater stability.

These developments will be studied by the Council, along with intensified exploration of natural resources. New markets will be sought, new capital encouraged. It will be the hope of the rest of Canada that this area, from which so many of the nation's statesmen have come, will by joint effort be enabled to achieve the greater economic advancement it deserves.

Trying to Get It Back on the Road

France and the Vital Decision

BY WALTER LIPPMAN, From Washington

APPROVAL of the new London agreements depends upon what the strong supporters of the old EDC do in the French National Assembly when the vote on official ratification takes place. Will they give their assent? Or will they impose conditions which are tantamount to a rejection in that they would require the reopening of the negotiations which have just been concluded?

The hard core of EDC supporters is among the Popular Republicans or Catholic Democratic party and in one wing of the Socialist party. They are moved by fear of a German national army and by their faith in the political federation of Western Europe as a guaranty against what they fear. But EDC is dead. They are now confronted with the fact that while they were not strong enough to carry EDC they may be strong enough to spoil the London substitute for EDC.

The real question is whether or not the old supporters of EDC, some of them the embittered enemies of Mr. Mendes-France, will participate in what amounts to a spoiling operation. For any new list of conditions that must be met before the Assembly will ratify means that the French government has once again to reopen matters that have already been agreed to by the allies of France. This would be universally regarded as a spoiling operation.

Before that is attempted, the true believers in EDC should make sure that they realize the consequences. They must not imagine that because London was a success after the failure of EDC, there could be another success after the failure of London. London was a success because there did not exist a real alternative to EDC, namely, a European system in which Britain is engaged as a principal power.

There is no alternative to this alternative—none, that is to say, that the supporters of EDC would care to think about. If the London agreement is rejected, or if it is spoiled, the French Assembly will not be offered still another nine-power plan.

France will be in the position of having rejected not only a reconciliation with Germany, which would be very serious, but also a European alliance with Great Britain, which would be disastrous. After that, not much would be left of the substance and almost nothing of the spirit of the Atlantic alliance.

A spoiling operation, carried out under the banners of European integration, would in fact destroy the only European system which can now be formed. A failure to ratify in the hope of renegotiating the London agreements would not produce a negotiation or an agreement. But it would isolate France. The Assembly showed recognition of this on Tuesday when it gave preliminary assent to the agreements.

The London agreements are, of course, a beginning and not an end in the formation of a European system. But the "Europeans" are badly advised about the temper of France's allies if they imagine that the National Assembly can dominate the development of the European system. Inside that system France will be a leading power and can accomplish big things. But outside it, France will not be able to compel others and even the appearance of trying to drive too hard a bargain will stiffen the opposition of the other powers.

SPOILING OPERATION

A spoiling operation would be at least as bad as a flat rejection. In some ways it would be even worse in that it would inspire less respect. For it would feed suspicion, which is undermining the French position in the world, that there is not now in Paris a government capable of governing; capable, that is to say, of taking hard decisions and of abiding by them and of carrying them out.

What hurt France the most in the affair of EDC was not the final rejection. It was the two years spent in avoiding any decision. The procrastination and the misleading promises raised the doubt as to whether France had a government capable of playing the crucial role which France must play in the Atlantic community. A spoiling operation now will revive and sharpen that doubt.

As this dispatch is written, the indications are that the French government is firmly resolved not to yield to the conditions which would set in motion a spoiling operation. The stakes are high. But they must be played for.

They include more than the survival or fall of the government of Mr. Mendes-France. They include the reputation of the French Assembly in the western world, the bases of confidence between France, Great Britain and America, and all the real and present prospects for development of a system of European unity.

As Our Readers See It

STATUES OUT OF DATE

Mr. Morton's suggestion that we commemorate prominent Canadians by erecting statues of them is commendable but rather out of date.

Both Macdonald and Laurier gave distinguished service to the country but who remembers them now? To quote a well-known hymn:

Time like an ever-rolling stream
Bears all its sons away;
They die forgotten as a dream
Dies at the opening day.

The same remark applies equally to Great Britain. I am told that the names of Disraeli and Gladstone are seldom mentioned now.

GULF ISLANDS PETITION

In view of the wide publicity which has been given "The Gulf Island Hospital Improvement District" wherein it was stated that there were 835 taxpayers in favor and 410 against, I would point out that there is no such thing as the VOTE in connection with this petition.

As the matter stands at the moment, 835 taxpayers within the district have signed the petition, and as far as can be ascertained officially there is a total of 1745 taxpayers, which would indicate that slightly less than 48% of the total number of taxpayers have signed the petition to date.

IN APPRECIATION

A word of appreciation for the recent news items from the Moral Re-Armament Assembly at Mackinac Island.

In this strife-torn world it is indeed "big news" when statesmen and business executives can find a uplifting idea, a starting point from which to tackle the stupendous problems that face them. What a real "United Nations" we might have!

May I add that I find the editorial page always interesting and sometimes helpful in clarifying certain issues, local and national.

TAXING OUR GUESTS

The B.C. 5% sales tax is unfair. It is unethical to expect our guests (tourists) to pay for our hospitals and welfare.

Income tax priority belongs first to the province (home) and then to the Dominion (relatives). The first part of the wage-earner's pay-check belongs at home; the second part to the relatives.

GWLADYS AND THE TEA-COSY

I do not think that either of your two correspondents can have read the sentence on Northwest Indian design in my Art Column of October 6 as carefully as I wrote it.

Since the Stone Age, civilizations have been borrowing and adapting art motifs from one another, with more or less success. I did not, therefore, condemn the use of Indian design but the indiscriminate use of it.

Taste, skill and judgment are just as necessary to the adapter as to the artist, precisely because he is making the delicate transfer from one culture to another. The more individual and dynamic the culture, the harder to transplant into new situations the motifs of its art without stumbling into basic incongruities.

From the point of view of the art historian or the art critic, the sociological value and commercial success of the objects he looks at is simply outside the area of discussion. His professional job is to evaluate the quality of the results.

ROBSON OF THE MOUNTAIN

I have noticed twice lately, the last time in Saturday's paper under "Ask the Times", the question after whom was Mount Robson named.

I would like to give the following information (for what it is worth) as given to me by my uncle the late Fred Robson of Mayne Island, B.C.

According to him Mr. Robson was named after his father, who came from England via Cape Horn and landed at Burrard Inlet. He was one of the original surveyors engaged by the CPR for the purpose of making the original survey through the Rocky Mountains to the coast.

The following is a partial history of the Robson family.

Wm. Robson the surveyor had a family of three sons, Wm. M. Fred and James and two daughters, Mrs. A. W. Knight and Mrs. Butt.

Mr. Wm. M. Robson lived on Mayne Island from the time he arrived from England via Cape Horn. He was Government Agent for the Islands for twenty years or more.

He had two sons and four daughters. One son Stanley is still living on Mayne Island and he has a son, Fred, now living on Galiano Island, having a summer resort. He is a grandson of Wm. Robson.

Capt. E. (Ted) G. Robson, Parksville is now a First Officer on one of the CPR boats. He is a great-grandson of William Robson.

Fred Robson was the first white settler on Mayne Island.

Further information might be procured from either Stanley Robson, Mayne Island, Fred Robson, Galiano Island or Capt. E. G. Robson, Parksville. They were more closely associated with the family than I was.

There are a number of other relations whom I have not mentioned.

I am a grandson of the Wm. Robson for whom Mt. Robson was named.

SWEESTAKES

I see, in reading the Victoria Times of recent date, that several of our ministers in Victoria are dissatisfied with regard to the sweepstakes on the part of the Social Credit Government to legalize sweepstakes under government supervision—only for the financial support of hospitals or other responsible organizations.

The dignitaries of the church, for whom the writer has the highest respect, hold up their hands in horror at the thought of sweepstakes being legalized under any conditions—stating in forcible language that sweepstakes are a form of gambling and, therefore, should be put down with a stern foot. They say getting "something for nothing" is economically unsound—one of your correspondents, over the signature of "Reader", going as far as to boldly state that in the event of sweepstakes being legalized it "would be a curse to Canada."

It is evident that the above remarks are made by people representing a small section of the public, who are strongly prejudiced against the legal operations of sweepstakes in Canada, failing to realize the benefits accruing from sweepstakes.

The sweepstakes in Ireland and Australia have been in operation for many years, and have proved an unqualified success.

If Canada did likewise, in legalizing sweepstakes, undoubtedly it would meet with similar success, as in Ireland and Australia. In the financial support of hospitals and other responsible institutions.

REMEMBRANCE DAY AND SERVICES

Can anyone imagine a Remembrance Day service at the cenotaph without the presence of representatives of the armed forces of Canada or, alternatively, a service without anything savouring of religion? Well, that's the usage of National Defence Headquarters.

Many edicts passing strange have emanated from the seats of the mighty at NDHQ at one time and another, but it is questionable if anything more destructive to our national roots has been issued than the recent order by the Minister of National Defence forbidding the attendance of members of Canada's armed forces at Remembrance Day observances which include a "religious content."

Incredible and shocking as it is, it is nevertheless true. Nothing made in Moscow and signed by the devil himself could do more to kill the spirit of Remembrance Day and dishonor our glorious dead than this. Not only that, but it is a monstrous affront to religious leaders and their churches especially, and a body blow to every institution and individual of Christian principles. It is the voice of anti-Christ, and as such calls for a protest from everybody in the strongest possible terms to Hon. Ralph Campney, Minister of National Defence, Ottawa.

An Underground Question

Christian Science Monitor

NEW England home owners who were held uncommunicado by downed telephone lines or who coped by candlelight with the problem of not-so-frozen foods after Hurricane Carol and Edna snapped power lines, didn't take long to ask: Why must this be? Why not underground wiring?

Power companies, well versed in the pros and cons of underground versus overhead wiring, came up quickly with estimates of staggering costs of conversion. They said rates would be two or three times as high as present ones. Also that there would be immediate expense to every home owner of some $150 or $200 for trenches from the property line to the house.

Figures like that have meaning for any householder. They are almost enough to make him join enthusiastically with the power companies in throwing cold water on underground wire talk.

They may even cause him to overlook successful programs, like that carried on in Belmont, Massachusetts which set an annual goal of so many miles of conversion to underground wiring, spreading the cost over a number of years. Although underground installation is more expensive, it can, if properly done, prove dependable and flood-resistant. Belmont's relatively trouble-free service during the two recent hurricanes showed this. It can especially be applied to trunk lines.

It is encouraging, therefore, to note the proposal before the Massachusetts Legislature for a commission to study the entire question and make a report. The subject would be worth consideration in other states as a factor in civil defense.

In matters involving power and communication—vitality necessary and seriously vulnerable in times of bombing or of winds and floods—concerted efforts to work out problems are preferable to quick decisions to sidestep them.

Objective weighing of the advantages and disadvantages of underground wiring, comparative costs of installation and maintenance, and the possibility of government financial aid as a civil defense measure—all this seems to fall admirably within a legislative commission's scope.

If a permanent improvement is worked out, this year's pair of hurricanes could be said to have "blown good" for New England.

'Citizens' Forum'

EVERY now and then, the CBC, in the business of its corporate heart, sends me some snappy-looking literature about forthcoming programs.

And the crested, russet-colored lovely before me as I write is full of the charms of the 'Citizens' Forum' program.

"What are Canadians thinking?" it asks with terrifying earnestness. "What are Canadians saying?"

And then, in sudden change of mood, it adopts the mazy jollity of an educational outfit that's scared stiff of seeming stuffy. "Let's find out! Let's join in." (Remember when your kindergarten teacher used to talk to you that way?)

But, fooling apart, Citizens' Forum does a great deal, I think, for Canadians who haven't time to read much, and who move in circles where some stimulus is needed to provoke intelligent discussion. And that means me.

Citizens' Forum, says the pamphlet, is a discussion of controversial issues. The discussion starts around the microphone and continues in homes across the country.

Pamphlets on each topic are available before the broadcast and you can get them from the provincial Citizens' Forum offices. (That, for us, is the Department of Extension at UBC, and the pamphlets for the whole series cost a dollar.)

This winter's series starts tonight (Thursday). The discussion is about Charity Appeals and whether there is something wrong with the system.

This is a topic that concerns us all, for most of us are getting sick and tired of the perpetual stream of requests for donations to worthy causes. We're sick of the multiplicity of demands. We're worried by the fact that some causes are easier to dramatize than others. We're secretly ashamed that helping our fellow men has been brought down to the level of who puts on the best publicity campaign. We are thankful to see that other cities like our own are slowly moving towards the idea of a united appeal.

On October 21 (next Thursday) Citizens' Forum discusses the Church and whether it's a social centre or a spiritual community. And that, too, is a subject about which many of us have wondered.

On Armistice Day, Citizens' Forum has a go at "McCarthyism. Can it happen here? Are Canadian civil liberties in danger?" Remembering our excitements of last spring, which one national magazine referred to as "that strange hassle out in flower-decked Victoria." I imagine that a lot of local citizens will be listening with flapping ears to this one!

Maybe it's naive, but a program of this kind on a national network always makes me think of the other Canadians who are listening to it. I like to imagine their homes and the communities they live in.

It's encouraging, I think, to know that in fishing settlements up the coast, in logging towns, in the ranches of the Cariboo, in the fruit-growing area of the Okanagan, other Canadians are listening, too.

For everywhere you find some Canadians who want to know a little more about what's happening in this great Dominion of which we are a part.

We Canadians have a tendency, as a whole, to be concerned only with our immediate area. Here, in Victoria, I sometimes have the awful feeling that we don't belong in Canada at all.

And even on the coastal mainland there's a feeling that the people on the other side of the Rockies belong in another world.

This, says the Massey Report in its wise and mellow way, is not a sign of a regrettable parochialism, but, rather, the price we pay for inhabiting half a continent.

To my mind, a program like Citizens' Forum helps to link us mentally as the railroad helped to link us physically.

Secret Municipal Meetings Condemned

U.K. Press Council Urges Civic Governments To Conduct Public Affairs Out in the Open

LONDON (Reuters)—The press council, set up a year ago to judge on newspaper ethics, reported Wednesday that the main questions with which it had to deal were alleged invasion of privacy, disclosure of secrets, reporting of crime and treatment of sex.

The council's first annual report said that exceedingly few specific cases of invasion of private life had come before it.

The report hit out at municipal governments which do too much public business in private "to the detriment" of the interests of taxpayers.

It said: "It is wrong for members of a town council to treat the public affairs entrusted to them as if they were their own private concern, and to make arrangements for the spending of vast amounts of public money without giving the ratepayers ample opportunity to have their own say in the matter."

The press council was set up on the recommendation of a Royal Commission which sat in 1947 to investigate the control, management and ownership of newspapers.

The report, entitled "The Press and the People," said: "A free and trusted press is the only ultimate safeguard of our democracy. The rights of the individual to express himself are precisely those of his newspaper. If those of the newspaper are whittled away, those of the individual are surely diminished."

"The council therefore holds the view that such disciplinary authority as it wields should be exercised against those practices, which, by bringing the press into disrepute, threaten that priceless liberty, and weaken the confidence which should exist between the citizen and the professional journalist."

MISJUDGMENT

The report said most cases dealt with by the council had not been of a serious character and were the kind that arose through misjudgment or human error.

Complaints sometimes arose because of the large number of reporters wishing to question people in the news. The report suggested the newspaper world should find a remedy for this.

On crime reporting, the report said complaints that some newspapers gave criminals "a

Waving the Red Cape

By WALLACE REYBURN

LONDON—There has been criticism here that the Queen is being "advertised abroad as a lover of blood sports." What has prompted it is the announcement that the head of a stag shot by the Queen at Balmoral is being sent to a sports exhibition at Dusseldorf in Germany.

The animal societies are on rather a spot. They'd like to raise a loud complaint about the choice of this sample of the way people go around shooting non-troublesome animals that can't defend themselves but the fact that it is linked with the Queen causes them to hold back. Feeling is that there are other aspects of the Queen's British sporting activities to which it would have been better to draw the attention of the public abroad.

The British love of the so-called blood sports is something that has always surprised me. Fair play, give everyone an even chance, play the straight bat are such a feature of the Englishman's make-up that it is strange to find this one striking flaw in the picture of his fair-mindedness.

What I can't fathom is that the same Englishman, who will go out of his way to see a carter who ill-treats his horse brought to justice and who will lavish money and time on saving the life of a sick dog that people of other nations wouldn't bother about, will have no compunction in going out on horseback with a pack of yapping hounds and give some poor fox a tortured hour or so of fighting for its life on the most unfair terms imaginable.

It's a popular habit of the English to condemn bullfighting as a barbarous pastime. The thought of anyone ever being allowed to stage such goings-on in Britain would be right out of the question.

Reyburn

Those who put on exhibition rodents in this country are never permitted even to show a cowboy jumping from his horse and bringing a steer to earth in the approved western style. Shocking ill-treatment of animals.

Yet when I was living in Spain and used to watch the bullfights I was interested to observe the basic difference between fox-hunting and bullfighting. Unlike the Englishman's harassed, outnumbered fox, the bull does get a fair break.

When I first saw a bull killed it did turn my stomach a bit, but I soon learned that the bullfighter is just as likely to get bumped off. There's a fine art—as well as much danger—to bullfighting. So important is the technique of getting the bull manoeuvred into the right position to make the kill that if any over-enthusiastic spectator jumps into the arena and spoils the effect of the bullfighter's elaborate sparring operations, he is bundled off to the clink without ceremony.

The waving of the red cape is not to infuriate and tantalize the bull. The object is to wear him out—like an experienced boxer letting a beginner tire himself out by dashing all over the place in the early rounds and then moving in for a knockout when all his energy is spent.

When the bullfighter is about to make the kill he must stand motionless right in the path of the bull and let the bull charge straight at him. It is the bull's two horns against the man's one sword. And the man must hit with the sword a three-inch weak spot on the bull's shoulders. If he misses, the bull wins the toss.

To me, that seemed fair enough—especially when you remember that bulls which come off best are retired to the farm to live in honored luxury. But for a fox in England—no such opportunity for a fair fight, no chance of a reprieve.

Mau Mau Abduct Settler After Killing His Wife

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—

Police and troops today combed the forest around Nyeri, 100 miles north of here, for an English settler who was dragged from his home Wednesday night by Mau Mau terrorists after they had strangled his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray Leakey were the parents of a wartime hero, Nigel Leakey, posthumously awarded the Victoria Cross.

Mrs. Leakey, 57, and an African cook were killed in the raid by 30 anti-white cultists. Their widowed daughter escaped.

The raiders struck when the Leakeys and their daughter, Mrs. Diana Hartley, were sitting down to supper. Mrs. Hartley escaped by climbing into an attic.

Rejects Proposal

To Post Reward

VANCOUVER (CP)—City council Wednesday refused to authorize a $2,000 reward for information leading to the solution of the "gangland" murder of Danny Brent last month.

Alderman George Cunningham said authorization of the reward proposed by the Vancouver Police Commission would be establishing a "dangerous precedent," since Brent's bullet-riddled body was found outside the city limits on University Golf Course, which is provincial property.

Police have been investigating the possibility that Brent's murder was connected with a fight for control between rival narcotics syndicates.

Miss Jean Cowan complained to police that her shopping bag, containing two charge account plates, had been stolen and since then she had received bills from two stores totaling more than $1,000.

Police set a trap at one of the stores and arrested Mrs. Evelyn Cumpson. She was charged with stealing the shopping bag and also faced other counts. Mrs. May Anderson, a provincial government employee, was charged on six counts of obtaining goods by false pretenses for also using the account plates.

Tiny Shop on Johnson Street Carries on Famed Saint's Work

By PETE LOUDON

The oldest of the 17 member agencies of the Community Chest is probably the least known by the general public.

To most Victorians, their only contact with St. Vincent de Paul Society is a casual glance in a store window when a stroll through the downtown area leads past the Thrift Shop on lower Johnson Street.

Even then, after peering inside, the casual wanderer is apt to shrug the little shop out of mind as "just another second-hand store."

Yet the "Thrift Shop" represents the headquarters of a group which has been pledged to the elimination of human suffering since 1833, which has been active in Canada for over 100 years and in Victoria since 1915.

NONE TURNED AWAY

It is a charity which is best known to the Catholics of Victoria, although its ministrations are to anyone in need regardless of race, creed or color.

In this it follows the example of the saint whose name the society has adopted.

Saint Vincent de Paul was born in France in 1576, the son of a Pyrenees shepherd. Because of an unexplained aptitude he was sent to Dax and Toulouse to study and finally became a priest.

During a voyage out of Marseilles in 1605, he was taken prisoner by Turkish pirates and sent as a slave to Tunis. For two years he did menial tasks and had in that time three masters. The last he converted to Christianity and induced to flee with him to France in a small open boat.

His experience soon brought him to the notice of Rome and he was named by the Cardinal to found a missionary brotherhood in Paris. He set up that city's first founding hospital, the first instruction centre for children previously called hopeless idiots, and accepted the task of bringing some measure of assistance to galley slaves.

He collected money for the hungry during a famine, formed an asylum for the aged and a hospital for the poor.

He died in 1660, but so great was his influence long after his death that adherents to the Roman Catholic Church formed the voluntary society in his memory dedicated to his ideals.

Last year in Victoria, the work of the good saint went on. Undenourished children were given 1,400 quarts of milk. Almost 300 meals were given single unemployed men. Rent was temporarily paid for seven families. Three men were given transportation tickets to out-of-town jobs. Housekeepers were provided to several families when mothers were ill. Fifty had overnight lodgings. Groceries were given 162 families and elderly people.

The society also furnished seven loads of fuel, gave clothing, paid medical expenses and met funeral expenses for other destitute cases.

The Thrift Shop has been in operation for more than a year. It collects used clothing and household articles, and offers them for sale at a nominal price. Through the store, low-income groups obtain needed items cheaply and funds are obtained to carry on the charities.

But St. Vincent de Paul Society answers many more pleas for aid than the income from the Thrift Shop will meet. The balance has to be made up by public subscription.

Once St. Vincent de Paul Society held its own annual canvass. Now it has joined in the united appeal of Community Chest. Your Red Feather donation will ensure the continuation of this charity in 1955.

SECOND PLANT TO PRODUCE NERVE GAS

WASHINGTON (UP)—Nerve gas ammunition will be produced at a new ordnance plant the army is planning to build in Denver, Colo., informed sources said today.

The new plant is believed to be the first specifically designed for turning out nerve gas ammunition in a "deliverable" form such as shells and bombs.

The new $8,000,000 plant is expected to be ready in 15 months. The army announced plans for its construction in a terse announcement late Wednesday.

King Ananda Was Murdered in Bed Thailand Court Finally Decides

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters)—The Thai Supreme Court today finally closed a royal mystery by ruling that King Ananda Mahidol, found dead in the royal bedchamber eight years ago, was murdered by political conspirators.

It confirmed death sentences passed on three members of the king's staff, alleged to have conspired with others to overthrow the monarchy.

King Ananda, young, handsome and popular idol of the masses, was found dead in bed at the Grand Palace in Bangkok on the morning of June 9, 1946. A .45 automatic lay beside him. The 21-year-old monarch was to have left four days later on a visit to the United States.

The government of the day said his death was an accident—Ananda, a gun fancier, kept an armory in his bedroom—but it was whispered that he had committed suicide.

Both theories were dropped after a coup in November, 1947, brought Field Marshal Pibul Songgram to power as prime minister.

His government reopened investigations and said it had found evidence of a plot. Among suspects arrested were the three palace officials, Chalew Pathumros, private secretary of the late king, and two former royal bedchamber attendants or pages, Chit Singhaseni and Butr Patharmirind.

Although there were not witnesses to the death, 200 people gave evidence against the trio. Also charged was "mystery man" Pridi Panomyong, the prime minister ousted by Songgram. He disappeared from the country after the 1947 coup.

The Thai government reported recently that he is organizing a "free Thai army" in Communist China's Yunnan Province to "liberate" Thailand.

HE WOULD HAVE HAD A LOT OF BUSTLE

SALINAS, Calif. (UP)—Max Anderson, six-foot three-inch, 230-pound tackle for the Hartnell College football team, got a lot of support as a write-in candidate for homecoming queen. He missed being a finalist by one vote.

"It's a good thing I didn't qualify," Anderson said. "I don't even have a formal."

VANCOUVER TO LAY CHARGE AGAINST SMOKING STEAMSHIP

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The City of Vancouver will lay a charge for smoke nuisance against a steamship moored in port in a test case.

City Council approved the move Wednesday night after hearing a report from a special committee which has been considering the matter.

Police Hunt 'Confessed Slayer' Needed for Murder Trial Witness

CALGARY, Alta. (BUP)—Police were searching today for William Lee Wallace, a man believed to be an acquaintance of Donald Winslow Henderson, Moose Jaw, Sask., as a material witness at Henderson's murder trial.

Wallace confessed in 1949 that he had killed Yvonne Levesque, 19, the girl Henderson is charged with murdering. Wallace made the confession in Detroit, but said later he admitted it only to gain a transfer to Canadian authorities.

A murder charge against him was dismissed and Wallace, 47, an electrical engineer believed to have occupied a cabin in the Calgary motor court when the Levesque girl was killed, Aug. 11, 1949, was believed to have left the city shortly after.

Million U.S. Children Found Delinquent

By BETTY PRYOR

WASHINGTON (UP) — Juvenile delinquency is a many-sided problem, and there is no single cure-all for it. But much can be done to check it.

That was the general conclusion of some 460 experts at a recent national conference on the subject.

According to the experts, time and money, too—but most of all teamwork and understanding—are needed to solve the problem. As Dr. Martha Eliot, chief of the children's bureau said, "It takes prolonged effort to combat delinquency."

The problem starts with the fact that no one knows just how many really delinquent youngsters there are in the country. Reports to the bureau showed slightly more than 1,000,000 delinquents last year. That is roughly 2 per cent of the nation's children under 18.

But reports from some cities lump a child who rides his bicycle on the sidewalk or commits some other minor offense in the delinquent column along with young burglars or killers.

Even so, the figures show a startling increase in the number of delinquency cases serious enough to reach juvenile or other courts. Last year a record high of 435,000 youngsters were taken into court, 45 to 50 per cent more than in 1948. In the same 1948-53 period, the nation's population of 10-to-18-year-olds increased only 7 per cent.

The seriousness of some juvenile crimes was brought out in a federal bureau of investigation report on arrests across the nation last year. They showed that youths of 18 and under committed 54 per cent of the auto thefts, 49 per cent of burglaries, 16 per cent of rapes, 5 per cent of assaults and 4 per cent of homicides.

Against this background of the juvenile delinquency problem, judges, police officials, welfare workers, educators, PTA, religious and civic leaders spent three days discussing what can be done about it.

Better schools, better trained police, more parent education, more community services for families and better institutions for young delinquents were some of the answers suggested.

There was some suggestion that adults need help, too, to readjust to rapid social change. Parents need education on their responsibility for their children, but they also need reassurance to avoid worry, one group said.

Another emphasized that there should be no "double standard" of conduct for children and adults. As an example, it said, adults shouldn't expect children not to cheat if they try to get by with it themselves.

The experts agreed that there is no single cause for juvenile delinquency and the solution, therefore, is a job for everyone.

Oomph—Lions Pollard Stopped But Good

It hasn't been a successful season for Annis Stukus' B.C. Lions in their first year in the Western Interprovincial Football Union. But one bright light in a dim season has been the heavy work of Lion fullback Al Pollard, former West Point star. Plunging and kicking, Pollard has been Lions' top scorer but even he can be stopped, as seen here. Pollard is lifted off the turf on a driving tackle by Calgary's Ed Henke during Monday's game at Calgary. Watching sadly after missing his block is John Waggoner (57). Calgary won the game, 42-6, for Lions' 11th loss in 12 games.

Howe Preys on Habs As Wings Take Lead

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

This was just one of those days. First there was a phone call explaining how a kangaroo cleans its pouch. We'd been asking that question for three years and now we know. The kangaroo licks it out. We won't go into full details but there will be a film shown at the Victoria West Lawn Bowling Club on October 22 that will reveal all. And we mean ALL.

Then there's a letter from O. Manzer at Langford. This is a little private matter that has been cropping up now and again for over a year now. Well, Mr. Manzer got to wondering, and then we got to looking and looking in the same places we had looked before. And now we got news for Mr. Manzer. We found IT. Yep, we did. Now what do you want done with it? Let's start over again!

We also got to thinking that it would be awfully nice to be in Hawaii. Why? That's simple, because we got a travel folder in the mail. Then, bingo, in the next post comes a note from a couple of tennis pals, Bill Templeton and Bill Coates... and they're enjoying every minute of it... in Hawaii.

Heard a story too about a fella that was playing golf last Sunday. Seems he strayed a trifle with his tee shot and ended up, mighty close to the wire fence designating out-of-bounds. Seemed, too, he thought he could pull a Sammy Sneed and play the shot. Seems now he needs a new club. He hit the wire fence and was left standing with his staff in hand and club head some yards distant. Never did learn what happened to ball. Must ask Stu Keate about it. Really must. Seems he was pricing a new club the same day. On second thought, maybe shouldn't ask HIM.

Then there was the advice that Ernie Fox had arrived in town for a holiday. Ernie's the former hoop star and PA announcer at Memorial Arena. He passes on the information that Darrell Popham is doing fine, Darrell being the former Shamrock boxa ace. Listened awhile to Cliff Nash complaining about his usual subject, hockey. His cronies from Hell's Corner at Memorial Arena chipped in with their "two-bits" worth as they always do and always will and have every right to do so. It's a real pleasant diversion—the between-period visit with these chaps, because they're real solid and real fans. It's as unfortunate as it is explainable that they must be so critical.

Pressure Tactics Charged in A's Sale

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Tommy Richardson, president of the Eastern League and a director of the Philadelphia Athletics, charged Wednesday night that the American League "put the pressure" on Roy Mack to agree to sell the A's to Arnold Johnson.

Richardson, who also entered a bid for the franchise, said he "felt we got a bad deal in Chicago."

"The meeting was called to give Roy an opportunity to buy out his brother Earle's stock," Richardson declared, "and while there were a lot of people there the only one to offer a cashier's cheque was my man, Charles O. Finley."

Finley, a Gary, Ind., insurance man, submitted two cheques totalling $450,000, the price set for Earle's 163 shares of stock. He said he would shift the Athletics to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

"The cheques he brought in were made out to Roy Mack, and the idea was for him to endorse them and take possession of Earle's stock," Richardson said.

"But we were not prepared for the league to go as far as it did, and I am sure Roy left with the understanding that he had until Monday to decide whether he could sell. My understanding is that he is committed only to let Johnson have his stock—if he sells at all."

"It is too late, but not too late to save the team. As I remember, Roy's exact words at the meeting were that he wanted time to consult his wife before agreeing to sell. 'If I find I cannot raise the money,' he said, 'then I will have to go to Kansas City.'

Richard Keeps Scoring Lead

By The Canadian Press

Last year's National Hockey League scoring champion and the runner-up again hold down the top two scoring positions in this year's young race—but in reverse order.

Gordie Howe of Detroit, the league's top scorer for the past four seasons, picked up a goal and two assists Wednesday night as the Red Wings downed Montreal, 3-2, and moved into second place in the standings with five points. Maurice Rockett Richard retained the lead with six points, however, by scoring one of Montreal's goals.

Richard has scored three goals—tops in the league—and is tied with Howe and teammate Doug Harvey for the assists lead—also with three.

The leaders follow:

Player	G	A	Pts
Richard, Montreal	3	3	6
Howe, Detroit	3	3	6
Geoffrion, Montreal	2	3	5
Kennedy, Toronto	2	1	3
Topolinski, Chicago	2	1	3

Detroit Star Gets Three Points

By CANADIAN PRESS

There probably isn't a fan who will lay odds on Gordie Howe not winning another National Hockey League scoring championship this season.

The 26-year-old rightwinger, who last year became the first man in history to win the title four straight times, broke out with a goal and two assists Wednesday night to lead Detroit Red Wings to a 3-2 victory over Canadiens at Montreal.

It boosted Howe's output this season to a pair of goals and three assists in three games—one point behind Montreal's Maurice (Rockett) Richard. The rambunctious Rockett, a 13-season veteran who has yet to win the scoring crown, scored a Canadiens' second goal, running his total to six points in four games.

It was the first meeting between the two clubs in the 1954-55 season and was the only league game Wednesday night. The victory sent the Wings into the league leadership with six points. They are undefeated in three starts and hold a one-point edge over Montreal.

REIBEL SCORES

Dutch Reibel and Ted Lindsay scored the other Detroit goals. Jean Beliveau tallied along with Richard.

The Red Wings didn't waste any time. They took a 1-0 lead at the 40-second mark of the first period when Dutch Reibel grabbed Howe's pass just inside the Montreal blue line and beat netminder Jacques Plante on a screened shot. Howe made it 2-0 at 8:48, scoring on a short pass from Reibel. It was Gordie's first goal on Montreal ice since the 1952-53 season.

Beliveau cut the margin at 10:30 of the second period but Lindsay shot the Wings into a 3-1 lead at 11:01, tipping in Howe's short pass.

Richard's goal came at 12:44 of the third on a three-way play with Ken Modell and Doug Harvey.

Only one game is scheduled for tonight; the third-place New York Rangers meet Chicago Black Hawks at Chicago.

KANSAS CITY ANOTHER MILWAUKEE?

CHICAGO (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics were pictured today as bringing the same financial boom to the American League as Milwaukee has done in the National League.

Painting this rosy scene was Will Harridge, American League president, and the overwhelming response of Kansas City citizens to the league's vote to shift the franchise from Philadelphia supports his enthusiasm.

"Kansas City has the same sort of people and the entertainment picture is similar to Milwaukee," Harridge said. "There are no other competitive sports that could cause distraction from baseball such as in cities like New York and Chicago."

Griffith Asks Probe Of Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Clark Griffith, 54-year-old owner of Washington Senators, Wednesday charged an irregular tie-in between Arnold Johnson, buyer of the Philadelphia Athletics franchise for Kansas City, and New York Yankees.

Griffith said he would definitely "look into the financial affairs of Mr. Arnold Johnson. I know he owns the Kansas City Stadium as well as Yankee Stadium. There's a definite rule in baseball that no man can have connections with another club directly or indirectly."

Griffith added: "I have also heard that he, Johnson, has business interests in a candy factory with Dan Topping, co-owner of the Yankees. I want to know all about his financial connections and I'm going to object if Mr. Johnson is going to own the ground the Yankees play on and then own a club in the same league."

Davis Cup Tickets Non-Existent Now

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—The Davis Cup organizing committee will be forced to reject 12,000 applications for tickets to the tennis finals here next December.

The committee has done this after providing extra seating accommodation at Sydney's White City tennis courts and allowing only 18 inches of seating space in the stands for each ticket-holder.

WHAT WOULD HE DO IF HE TRAINED?

No Grind for Chris

By ARCH MACKENZIE

LONDON (CP)—They're wondering today what smiling Chris Chataway would accomplish in the running world if he trained as seriously as most of his opponents.

The red-headed Oxford graduate lit a cigarette Wednesday night after smashing the world record for 5,000 metres against Russia's Vladimir Kuts and said: "Well, that's all for six months."

"But I shall certainly race again next year and I hope to go to the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne, Australia."

"I have trained, but not so hard in the last five weeks. In the last 10 days I have hardly trained at all. I usually smoke 10 cigarettes a

FINANCE TALKS BEGIN

PCL Club Near In Vancouver?

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Pacific Coast League's "finance committee" scheduled a meeting with city officials today to discuss the possibility of moving a PCL franchise here.

Brick Laws, owner of Oakland A's, and Emil Sick, president of Seattle Rainiers, slated a meeting with Mayor Fred Hume and baseball and business men.

Laws said at Seattle Wednesday night he and Sick were named by PCL president Clarence Rowland as a "finance committee" to investigate what rental arrangements could be made for the city park, home of Vancouver Caplanos of the disbanding Western International League.

Laws refused to say what PCL franchise might be brought here but Rowland recently indicated Laws would like to move his club away from the Oakland area.

Baseball men said the stadium here will have to be enlarged from its present 7,000-seat capacity to about 12,000.

Japanese Ice Team May Play Here

The Japanese Nationals, an all-star hockey team from Japan which will make a tour of Canada and the United States, will likely play in Victoria, January 10, it was learned today.

Negotiations are being made by Ivan Temple, vice-president of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association, and Doug Fletcher, president of the Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League, to have the touring squad here for an exhibition game.

The tour is a return visit after Kenora Thistles' tour of Japan last year.

It is planned to have the team meet an all-star team chosen from the three Victoria teams in the Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League—Drake Hotel, Navy and C & C Taxi.

The league-leading goalie would tend the nets and each of the three teams would have one intact forward line in the game.

Local hockey officials feel they can meet the necessary guarantee and have booked Memorial Arena for the suggested date.

Elks Lead, Down Packers

By The Canadian Press

Kamloops Elks are perched on the top rung of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League standings today after coming up with another hustling performance Wednesday night to dump Kelowna Packers 6-4.

The win was doubly sweet for coach Phil Hergesheimer, who was released as playing coach of the Packers last season.

Standouts in the Kamloops attack were Bill McCully and Bill Hryciuk, both ramming home a pair of goals.

Mount View Held to Tie By Oak Bay

Indications were Wednesday that Mount View High School may have a tough row to hoe in defense of its Inter-High School Senior League championship.

The defending champs had a narrow brush with defeat but came through with a goal in the last two minutes of the game to pull out a 1-1 tie with Oak Bay as the prep season got under way with two games.

In the other league game, Mount Douglas made a successful return after dropping out of soccer for a year, goose-eating Esquimalt Dockers, 2-0, at Esquimalt.

Victoria High School, fifth team in the league, had a bye and scored a 4-2 conquest over Normal School in an exhibition game.

At Hampton Road grounds, the Mount View squad was without the services of spark-plug team captain George Robbins and had to rely heavily on the talented goal-tending of agile Doug Patterson, who was spectacular in holding Oak Bay to one goal in the first half.

Patterson was well beaten on Oak Bay's only goal, 10 minutes before half-time. Ray Hughes nodded in a well-placed pass from Bill Mossey for the first goal of the game.

Mount View pulled several line-up switches for the second half and were rewarded two minutes from time when Barry Alexander headed in a shot off the post for the tying goal and the split in points.

GOOD GOALING
Excellent goal-tending was also the story behind Mount Douglas' victory over Esquimalt as Mike Jeffrey had to work hard to fashion his shutout.

The suburbanites, playing a continual pressing game, took a 1-0 lead in the first half on a goal by Bob Noble and Reg Chasson put the victory in deep freeze with a bonus goal in the second half.

In the exhibition game at Vic High Stadium, Steve Gryschuk gave Normal School an early lead but the home club whipped in two goals by Bud McLaren and Ed Howayk to take a 2-1 lead at the half.

School tied it briefly in the second half but Vic High pulled the decision out with goals by Barry Harrison and Billy Abbott.

Flyers Out-Wing Cougars As Local Defense Falters

Edmonton 6, Victoria 4

By BILL WALKER

Victoria Cougars met Edmonton Flyers on what were supposed to be even terms at Memorial Arena Wednesday night.

But the Cougar mainly responsible for keeping those terms as near even as the final 6-4 score indicated was Marcel Pelletier.

As suggested, the Flyers got the odd two goals in 10. Pelletier, being a goalkeeper with more than ordinary talent in the art in which he is employed, on this occasion in particular displayed that talent. And although six shots evaded him, 42 others didn't, and that about tells the story of the Cougars' third defeat in four games of the very young Western Hockey League season.

But while doing so, it doesn't tell of the valiant efforts of some others of the Cougars who showed that they, too, could play the Flyers on even terms, but to be finally successful in this and other endeavor needed, and will need, more help from their compatriots than they received this night.

Ed Dorohoy got the second at 7:11 of the second frame with Al Arbour of the Flyers serving a penalty and it was a tribute to Eddie's diligence of purpose which carried throughout the contest.

Andy Heberton got the final two counters in the third period and there wasn't a man on the ice that more deserved like reward unless it was Johnny Bucyk of the Flyers, a real get-out-and-go forward who showed tremendous potential.

Too, there was Colin Kilburn, suffice to say that when coach Billy Reay was seeking where to find his power in the late stages of the contest, it was Walt Clune got the first Cougar goal at 2:59 of the first period, and that was merited in that Clune was the club's best defenseman.

EMPIRE STADIUM GETS PLASTIC TARPAULIN

VANCOUVER (CP)—A plastic raincape covered the gridiron of Empire Stadium here Wednesday night as officials strove to keep the soggy field in shape for Western Interprovincial Football Union play.

A gang of workmen completed the task of spreading the light plastic tarpaulin over the 70,000 square feet of turf shortly before nightfall.

Officials of the Pacific National Exhibition, operators of the 25,000-seat stadium, described the tarpaulin as a "temporary measure" to try to keep the water-logged gridiron in playable shape until the end of the football season.

Red 'Still 39' Carr With Clippers Again

By DENNY BOYD

Red Carr isn't really 87 years old, he just looks it. Actually, the grizzled, weary-looking veteran of the Nanaimo Clippers hockey club admits to 39 years of age but that old story has been told before by a gentleman a few years older than Carr.

A father of three, Carr can look back on a brilliant hockey career that saw him serve for Toronto Maple Leafs, Fresno Falcons, Portland Eagles and Vancouver Canucks. He has the appearance of an old work-horse and the hockey legs of a frisky colt.

His thinning, rust-colored hair is spotted with streaks of grey now, but he can still deke much younger defencemen and befuddle goalies with a bullet shot that can bruise a hand through a goalie's mitt.

Last year when Clippers, fed high on the hog in the Commercial Hockey League, Carr was one of the glutted, scoring 44 points in 28 games and winning up fifth in the league scoring race.

Now, at Heaven knows what age, Carr is coming back for another season, providing one of the reasons Clippers manager Frank Crane enthuses. "We'll be even stronger than last year."

Eddie Shamlock and Angie DeFelic have left Nanaimo and will be playing in Clinton, New York. Carr had an offer from the same club but declined in favor of Clippers.

Other holdovers coming back for another season will be elusive little Bert "Shadow" Yesowick, right winger Joe Zuback, bone-rattling defenceman George Milford, Bob Kemp, Doug Sutherland, Bud Dumont, Earl Robinson, and Don and Lawrence Plensky.

Bill Haslam, big rookie defenceman, may also return if he does not accept an offer to join Lethbridge Native Sons.

Spanky Hodgson, who started with Nanaimo and then was called up to Nelson Maple Leafs for 20 games, will be back between the pipes for Clippers.

Among the newcomers who have been working out with Clippers are Mel Gordeau, formerly of the old Senior Clippers; Bruno Furlan, a Vancouver defenceman who earlier pledged his troth to Dick Irving's Drake

COACH ABSOLVED OF BLAME

Argos Give Clair Chance to Return

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts, no longer the most feared team in the Big Four football union after two straight dismal seasons, Wednesday night disclosed a new policy for signing U.S. pro players that is bound to make enemies in the National Football League.

The Argos' policy has been to stay clear of NFL players under contract or signed to option clauses. It has kept them on friendly relations with teams in the U.S. pro league but it hasn't done them any good in their own league.

Their inability to build a contender with U.S. college players as their import bulwark is forcing the change along with the fact that other Big Four clubs haven't hesitated to sign established pro stars. Bill Ross, president of the Argonauts, Wednesday night absolved head coach Frank Clair and his assistant, Chuck Klein, of any blame.

BE OFFERED CONTRACT

Ross said that Clair will be offered a contract to coach the team next season and if he isn't back "it'll be because he doesn't want to be back."

"We're proud of our coaches," he said at a hastily-called press conference where he answered

Sets World Mark for 5,000 Metres

LONDON (BUP)—Red-haired Chris Chataway said today he was "not going out for a new record" in yesterday's 5,000-metre world record triumph, a race that brought him a lot of the glory he narrowly missed in pushing two other men to four-minute miles.

Chataway's come-from-behind victory in 13 minutes, 51.6 seconds was the British highlight of the big meet at White City Stadium in which a Russian team representing the city of Moscow defeated a London team, 103 points to 57.

The Russians had a record-smasher of their own, too—Yuri Lituyev, who set a new standard of 51.3 seconds for the 440 high hurdles to wipe out the mark of 51.6 held by former Cornell University star Charley Moore.

But Chataway's victory was the emotional standout of the meet as he finished one stride ahead of Russian star Vladimir Kuts, an ex-sailor, defeated Chataway by about the same margin in the recent European championships at Berne, Switzerland, and in the process set the world record of 13.56.6.

Kuts, who set the pace almost all the way, was timed in 13.51.8. Kuts tried to shake off the dogged Chataway three times by sudden spurts designed to open a big lead. Grimly Chataway held on, and then finally passed him to win with a desperate surge in the last 25 yards.

"I was not going out for a new record," said Chataway, "but as lap after lap went by, I realized it was going to be a pretty fast race. Those spurts that Kuts kept making certainly unsettled me. I've never met anyone who runs a race quite like he does. On current form, I think I would take him to beat Emil Zatopek."

$10,000 LOSS CAUSED WHEN FISHBOAT BURNS

SIDNEY—Extensive damage, estimated at $10,000, was caused Wednesday afternoon by fire aboard the fishboat Finback, moored at Shoal Harbor Marine. Fire, believed to have started in the galley, broke out shortly after noon. It was finally brought under control at 5:30 p.m. by Sidney and North Saanich Volunteer Fire Department, headed by Fire Chief G. A. Gardner. The boat was under charter to Othello and Fergus Walker, Victoria, who were aboard when the fire started. An attempt was made to tow the 50-foot vessel to deeper water and capsize it, but the rope being used to turn it over burned through. The vessel was towed back to the wharf where firemen continued their effort.

Sale of CN Hotels

Opposed at Brandon

BRANDON (CP)—The Brandon chamber of commerce Tuesday night went on record as opposing any sale of the Canadian National Railway's Prince Edward Hotel here and a resolution to this effect will be forwarded to the manager of the hotel chain and government officials.

The chamber took the action following a recent announcement from Montreal that the Prince Edward along with some other CNR hotels might be sold.

Chamber president William Stordy said a questionnaire had been circulated to members and a majority were in favor of no change of ownership or operation of the hotel.

Members said they felt sale of the hotel to private hotel operators would result in not as high a calibre of maintenance and management.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—A selling wave hit the stock market today but it managed to weather the storm and hold losses within moderate limits.

The decline forced losses of 1 to around 3 points in many of the sections of the market, but a surprising number of key issues were down only small fractions.

Some plus signs persisted. Volume was boosted to an estimated 2,500,000 shares.

All principal divisions of the market were lower, but railroads, even at the worst of the selling, resisted the decline and then started a recovery movement of their own that brought some good plus signs into the day.

STOCK EXCHANGE SUMMARIES

Splurge in Lorado Sets Volume Record

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market today rocketed to the highest volume in 18 months but the pace of trading slowed a little toward the close. Volume was 5,198,000.

Two uranium issues accounted for more than one-third of the trading. Lorado turned over about 850,000 shares up to 2 p.m. and hit a 1954 high of $2.34, easing later. Sudbury Contact traded more than 750,000 shares, falling back a little after hitting a high of 43 cents.

The heavy activity followed reports of good orebodies at Lorado's Beaverledge, Sask. properties. Sudbury Contact adjoins Lorado.

Uraniums as a group were strong but all other sections of the market showed a majority of losses. Industrial drops out of losses. Industrial drops out of losses.

Western oils leaned heavily on the downside with Canadian Collieries, Pacific Petroleum, North Canadian, Great Plains and Gridoll the heavier losers.

Senior base metals fell off but individual losses were small. Juniors eased pennies.

Montreal Slips Back In Moderate Trading

MONTREAL (CP)—The stock market lost ground in moderately active trading today.

Shawinigan retreated 1 point and Crown Zellerbach was 1/2 weaker. Aluminum slipped 1/2. Price Brothers and Seagram's each gained 1/4 point.

Papers, utilities, beverages, senior metals and senior oils drifted into softer territory while steels and miscellaneous industrials were mixed. Carriers and banks showed little change.

Mines were narrowly improved with Lorado Uranium advancing 27 cents at $2.20 and Canadian Collieries up 15 cents at $9.50. Western oils were trendless.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices generally showed a firm undertone today on the Winnipeg grain exchange and trading was featured by a fair export business.

Barley was estimated that more than a cargo of barley was sold overseas. Domestic shippers were credited with purchases in oats and there was processing and local demand in flax as well as European inquiry. Rye followed the firm trend of the other commodities.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included United Kingdom 55,000 bushels, Belgium 80,000, Italy 100,000, Germany 425,000, India 275,000, and small parcels to Jamaica and Venezuela.

Lakehead prices for top grades of wheat: No. 1 W.A. and No. 2 W.A. were unchanged.

New Chief of Canada's Scouts Coming for Oct. 18 Conference With Victoria Leaders

Boy Scout leaders throughout British Columbia are preparing for the first visit to the province of their recently-appointed new chief executive commissioner for Canada, F. J. Finlay, who is attached to Canadian Scout Headquarters in Ottawa. Mr. Finlay will confer with Scout leaders and committee members in Victoria on Oct. 18.

The new chief executive commissioner succeeded Maj.-Gen. D. C. Spry, now director of the Boy Scouts' International Bureau in England.

Born in London, England, on Feb. 27, 1903, Mr. Finlay has been active in the Boy Scout movement since 1916 when he joined the 63rd Glasgow Troop in which he eventually became a patrol leader. With the Glasgow Troop from 1916 to 1919, Mr. Finlay next served as an instructor of Scouts in the Dominican Republic in the West Indies, starting in 1926.

In Canada Mr. Finlay was an assistant cubmaster of the 58th Toronto Wolf Cub Pack in 1940, cubmaster of the pack from 1940 to 1944, and scoutmaster of the troop from 1944 to 1948. He became area commissioner for Toronto North in 1948, deputy metropolitan commissioner in 1951. He has been a member of the Ontario Provincial Scout Council since 1950 and of the Canadian General Council since 1951.

The new chief executive commissioner has the enthusiastic support of a scouting family in his new field of endeavor. Mrs. Finlay, the former Miss Gwendolen Edith Baird, was a Girl Guide and Cadet from 1916 to 1923; a Brown Owl in Guiding in the West Indies during 1924 and 1925; and assistant cubmaster, then cubmaster, of the 58th Toronto Cub Pack from 1943 to 1953. Their two sons have come up through Scouting as Cubs, Scouts, patrol leaders and King's Scouts.

Mr. Finlay was educated in England and Scotland. He is an Associate of the Institute of Bankers in Scotland, a Fellow of the Canadian Bankers' Association and a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Secretaries.

Mr. Finlay was with the Royal Bank of Scotland from 1917 to 1921. He joined the Bank of Nova Scotia in 1921 and held posts in the Dominican Republic from 1921 to 1931 when he came to Canada. He was appointed assistant inspector in 1934, inspector in 1939, assistant secretary in 1941 and secretary

Montreal Police Chief Ignores Order to Stay Away From Office

MONTREAL (BUP)—Police director Albert Langlois reported back to work today, defying a quit-or-be-sacked ultimatum from civic officials less than a week after he was fired for allegedly tolerating organized vice in Montreal during the fast and furious 'forties.

Langlois was back at his desk shortly before noon. He immediately contacted Assistant Director Thomas Leggett, the man who has been acting chief.

Earlier, Langlois' lawyer deposited a $1,000 bond to guarantee that the director would go ahead with an appeal against the dismissal judgment of Mr. Justice Francois Caron last week. Langlois did not accom-

The director reported back to work less than four days before the City Council was scheduled to meet in an unprecedented session to consider his suspension following his refusal to quit or take a leave of absence.

He said he was availing himself of "my absolute and inalienable right" to stay at the job until the appeal judgment is rendered.

'Bachelor Parties' Banned For U.S. Army in Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)—All army bachelors—male and female, temporary and permanent—were on notice today that there will be no more after-midnight mixed parties in government quarters.

The ban was contained in a memorandum issued by Maj. Gen. Thomas W. Herren, of the northern area command, who leaves Germany shortly to take command of the first army at Governor Island, N.Y.

Herren's order said bachelor officers and civilians are not to entertain members of the opposite sex in bachelor quarters between midnight and 8 a.m. "without written authority."

Antiquarian Delays $9 Million Deal

NEW YORK (AP)—A Boston millionaire, in town to close a deal to buy the McAlpin Hotel for $9,000,000, caused a crisis Wednesday when he couldn't be located at the appointed hour for signing the final papers.

While corporation lawyers and insurance executives waited, fuming, Ernest Henderson, president of the Sheraton Corp. of America, was happily exploring antique shops on Third Avenue.

Owner of the Astor Hotel in New York, in addition to more than 30 other major hotels throughout the country, Henderson learned that President Eisenhower is expected to spend one night in the Astor soon, and so he est out to furnish the president's suite in early American antiques.

He had just purchased a chair once owned by George Washington, for $2,200, when panting executives of his company finally found him and brought him back to complete the deal for the purchase of the McAlpin.

Henderson was a little miffed because he hadn't had time to buy a clock used by Thomas Jefferson, too, but he plans to return to Third Avenue and continue his hunt today.

SOCIALISTS WIN ELECTION IN BRAZIL

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP)—Brazil's moderate Socialist Party appears today to have been the principal victor in the Oct. 3 elections, at the expense of the Communist-supported Labor Party of the late President Getulio Vargas.

Incomplete returns indicate President Joao Cafe, Jr.'s UDN party, despite some local gains, suffered a net loss of national strength in the Congressional, state and local voting.

Vargas' brother Benjamin was arraigned Wednesday as an accessory to the bungled assassination that drove the late president to suicide. Seven other men have been charged with varying degrees of guilt.

U.S. Believed to Have Told Nationalists to Ease Off

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Walter S. Robertson, assistant United States secretary of state, flew home today, leaving this Nationalist Chinese capital buzzing with speculation on the reason for his brief visit.

In a prepared statement handed to reporters at the airport, Robertson said he had "examined the situation throughout the Far Eastern area and exchanged views as to means of coping with various problems in the region."

Most Chinese are convinced that Robertson came to urge the Nationalists not to attack the Red mainland.

"YOU'LL BE RICHER FOR GIVING" — SUPPORT YOUR COMMUNITY CHEST!

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

The mayor's statement to the Civil Defense Board Tuesday deserves whole-hearted support of all right-thinking citizens.

The mayor, as I understand it, said the city fathers should have the right to declare martial law and/or a state of emergency, without waiting for Ottawa to pass an order-in-council authorizing same.

The mayor is so right. Who wants to sit around waiting for an order-in-council? Just when you need it most, you might find the order was out of council, not in.

Or worse still, that the council was out of order, and all the plumbers busy on other jobs.

So it is obvious the city should be able to declare a state of emergency whenever the need arises.

And I do not mean just the ordinary, tired old emergencies such as war, flood, fire or pestilence.

I mean the really important emergencies, such as arise in Victoria with great frequency.

If the city had suitable powers, we would no longer suffer from having ancient trees cut down.

The instant an axe-blade flashed back, ready to cut into the trunk of a venerable oak tree, the mayor could declare martial law. All axes would be confiscated, and all those suspected of harboring ill intentions against innocent wood-in-the-raw, would be shot immediately.

Or even deported to Vancouver.

The city's emergency powers would also be useful in the case of nasty old steamship lines which send steamships steaming past Victoria on their way to Vancouver without stopping here.

Next time a steamship hove into sight off Race Rocks, the mayor could declare a state of emergency and issue an ultimatum to the skipper:

"Drop in and pay a visit or pay the consequences."

The consequences, of course, would be attacks by Victoria's own fleet of garbage scows, and a fierce, concentrated bombardment of grapefruit rinds.

Also, if it happens the city council decides to sit in camera, and a newspaper reporter remarks he would like to let the voting public know what is going on, a state of emergency would be declared immediately.

The city council, of course, could decide on suitable punishment for the reporter, ranging from hanging by the neck until dead up to 20 years hard labor as a columnist.

The city, indeed, deserves the right to declare a state of emergency without waiting for an order-in-council.

And I am sure every citizen of Victoria will support this move—providing, of course, that he retains his inherent right to have, first a petition and then a plebiscite, to nullify the said state of emergency.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Passing a stop sign without halting cost Robert P. McLean, 244 Robertson, $5 in city police court today. Robert A. Achenson, HMCS Naden, paid $25 for driving without insurance on his car while a minor. Stanley Charles Rife, 706 Craigflower, paid the same fine for violating the same restriction.

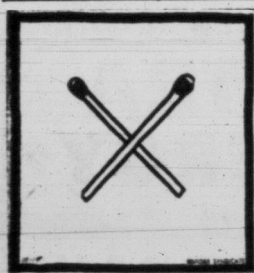

Douglas W. Macauley, 117 Wildwood, and Ronald Glover, 1346 May, each were fined $35 in city police court today for careless driving. Macauley collided with a bus October 5, causing $215 damages. Glover drove his sedan delivery into a wood truck at Victor and Haultain, September 24. Damages were over $900.

Regular meeting of Esquimalt Constituency Social Credit Association will be held Friday at Colwood Hall at 8 p.m.

A burglar alarm called city police to Page the Cleaner Ltd., 2929 Douglas at about 2:30 a.m. today. A door to a boiler room had been forced but the alarm had scared off the intruder before police arrived. The shop has been victimized several times in the past before the alarm was installed.

DROODLES

When I was 10 I tried to join the Boy Scouts back in W. V., but they rejected me. I was prepared but they weren't. But my youngest brother, Stanley, went to a Scout camp this summer and he sent me something he made in woodcraft class. A genuine snake skin belt. There's only one trouble—the snake is still alive. Of course, I have the only belt in town that can buckle itself but every time Sherman (that's the snake's name) yawns, my pants fall down. Once a week I have to feed the belt a raw egg, but it's worth the extra bother because the snake skin belt goes so well with my alligator shoes. In fact it is going steady with the left one (probably hopes to settle down and raise some little Moccasins).

Attempted to Sell U-Drive Car To Escape Jail, Accused Claims

A young man who was returned here from Mexico to face car-theft charges said in city police court today he had attempted to sell a Victoria U-drive car to avoid staying in a Mexican jail.

Robert G. Kurtiss, formerly of 844 Dunsmuir, was committed for trial in a higher court by Magistrate H. C. Hall following a preliminary hearing.

Kurtiss took the stand to explain he had not meant to defraud anyone when he rented a National Motors car early in August.

He admitted that a cheque given as rental was worthless but said he had been drinking heavily here and had not known that his account had insufficient funds.

He said he had intended to take the car to Seattle and had paid an additional $30 in cash before leaving town. He ended up in Juarez, Mexico, he added.

He was jailed there on a drunk and disorderly charge and was unable to pay damages and bar bills held against him which totaled $75.

He said that under a Mexican debtors law, he could be held in custody until the damages were paid.

BOTH DEPORTED

"Rather than stay there a few years, I decided to try to sell the car," he stated that a jail-mate offered to make a deal for him.

Both Kurtiss and the car were deported by Mexican authorities. A North Vancouver insurance adjuster travelled to El Paso, Texas, to take over the car, and Kurtiss was sent here. He was arrested by city detectives as he stepped from a Seattle boat October 1.

Kurtiss, who stands about six feet four inches, is in his early twenties. He told the court that he had rented an office here and written cheques for a typewriter rental and a telephone installation in hopes of landing a television appliance agency. He was negotiating with a Fort Worth, Texas, firm.

He argued that he would hardly have spent so much money setting himself up here if he had intended to steal a car.

NAME CHANGED

Questioned by city prosecutor Alan Bigelow, Kurtiss admitted his real name is Robert Allan Bisskey.

"I have found out that there is prejudice against the 'ski' (sound) here," he said in explaining why he used another name. He later objected to Magistrate Hall when the prosecutor asked him why he also used the name C. L. Cummings.

The magistrate upheld his objection because the information was not required for the purpose of the preliminary hearing.

THE accused will appear in court again Friday to answer three charges under the name of C. L. Cummings. He is charged with obtaining a radio, a second charge of obtaining a camera, and a third charge of obtaining a sports jacket, all with worthless cheques.

AGAINST CANADA TREND

Tourist Trade Up For South Island

Tourist traffic on southern Vancouver Island went against the general downward trend in Canada and showed a slight increase this season over last year, according to figures released today by George I. Warren, commissioner of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

"As far as we can find out, this area is the only one in Canada to show an increase," he said.

Tourist traffic here is measured by the number of cars and passengers handled by the customs ports of Victoria and Sidney.

For the nine months ending Sept. 30, customs dealt with 58,801 cars with foreign licenses, carrying 176,460 passengers. This was an increase of 24 per cent over last year, when 57,226 foreign-license cars with 170,472 passengers passed through customs.

Canadian cars visiting the lower Island also increased slightly, Mr. Warren reported. This season the two customs ports handled 20,677 Canadian-license cars with 64,570 passengers, up 14 per cent over 1953's 20,300 cars and 62,892 passengers.

Mr. Warren said cars entering Canada through Victoria and Sidney carried license plates from all States in the Union, Sweden, South America, Mexico, West Indies and Alaska.

The general downward trend in tourist traffic across Canada was blamed mainly on poor weather, according to Canadian press reports. Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, said in an interview competition for the tourist dollar was heavier, but the big factor was poor weather from Victoria to Newfoundland. Mr. Dolan said people left Canada in greater numbers this year, but there were also more Canadians traveling within their own country.

City Ministers Oppose All Forms of Lotteries

The 30 members of the Greater Victoria Ministerial Association in their annual meeting Wednesday went on record as being unalterably opposed to lotteries or gambling "in any shape or form."

In their stand they supported the Council of Churches outlook on the situation.

"It is our considered opinion that the licensing in any form of a recognized social evil provides no contribution to social welfare," they said in their resolution.

Dr. F. E. H. James of Metropolitan United, was elected president, succeeding Rev. J. E. Smith. Named vice-presidents were Rev. C. B. Smith, and secretary-treasurer, Major Walter Oakley, Salvation Army.

Mrs. Lynda Murphy of the armed services social centre appealed to church members to open their homes to servicemen in the area.

JAN ZACH REVEALS MASTERY OF VARIED ARTISTIC MEDIA

Exuberantly Vital Show by Versatile Artist

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

Variety, versatility, energy and large scale ideas keynote the impressive and exuberantly vital show of recent work by the Victoria artist, Jan Zach, which opened at the Arts Centre this week. The exhibition demonstrates, in a way which his last show of paintings could not do, the flair and assurance with which Mr. Zach works in a wide variety of media and styles.

In the field of painting there are the large and dynamic canvases "Composition," done in the egg tempera medium; the beautifully organized, glowing and rhythmically elegant oil "Arbutus Road"; tempera studies such as the lyrical "Seaweed"; rich pastels, and a large open-collage aquarelle.

Mr. Zach's obviously sensitive feeling for sculptural materials is expressed in forms of enormous energy and rather bewildering variety. There are large works such as the vitally plastic red cedar "Venus," the elegant compound stone "Centaur," the "Cloaked Figure" in gypsum, the "Torso" in beach stone and several pieces in metal.

IMAGINATIVE

Among the latter is a wire construction using lighted neon tubes, one of the many pieces in the show which demonstrate Mr. Zach's inventive and imaginative vitality.

Library 'New Deal' Suggested

Would Give Vote To Municipalities

A move to draw up a new contract between the city and outside municipalities for city library services, was made by the Victoria Library Board in a letter to the City Council today.

The letter indicated the library board favored giving outside municipalities a vote on the board providing all parties agreed to sign a new contract.

Under the present set-up Saanich and Oak Bay pay for library services but have no vote on the library board. This has been a source of disagreement between the city and the municipalities.

BOARD CONCERNED

The board said in its letter that it is greatly concerned "by the fact that some of the municipalities contracting with the Library Board for library service are dissatisfied with the present arrangements."

The board felt that the best interests of library service in Greater Victoria can only be achieved by mutual understanding between the city and those municipalities affected in the agreements.

The board added it was ready to assist the city council to bring about a new agreement which would be satisfactory to all parties.

The letter did not surprise the city council. Only two weeks ago library board chairman James Neely at a public meeting in Saanich appealed to the outside municipalities to hold a round table conference to settle their difference on the library matter.

Mr. Neely at the time admitted that the present contract was not satisfactory to the "city and outside municipalities" and that something should be done to draw up a new agreement. He favored giving a vote to outside municipalities providing they signed a new contract.

Added Penalties For Driver of Logging Truck

A 30-day jail term given Kenneth Baxter Dobbie, St. James Hotel, in Colwood court Tuesday was increased by another 20 days in city police court today or $100 in fine.

Dobbie was charged by Colwood RCMP after driving a logging truck while his license was under suspension. He chose 30 days rather than $100 fine.

Wednesday he pleaded guilty to two more charges in city court of driving while suspended. Since 1948 he has been convicted of three speeding charges, no arm signal, no horn, violation of a red light and another charge of driving while suspended, court was told.

Magistrate H. C. Hall passed sentence today and advised that the $50 fine or 10-day term in each of the city cases, would not be concurrent.

CCF Youth Elect Anne Snowsell

Anne Snowsell Wednesday was elected president of the Lower Vancouver Island CCF Movement, while Allen Snowsell and Bryan Mae were named vice-presidents. Effie Jernslett was named secretary and Gwyn Walters, treasurer.

The group will hold a Halloween party Oct. 27 in the CCF Douglas Street hall, while a Christmas variety concert is scheduled for Monday, Dec. 20.

NEWLY APPOINTED director of the Capital Regional Planning Board, Brahm Wiesman, 28, assumed his duties here this week after five years as assistant head of Edmonton's town planning group. He holds a bachelor of architecture degree and a master's degree in town planning from McGill University. He has had little opportunity yet to familiarize himself with Victoria's planning problems, but said today he believed in "preserving the qualities of this natural setting. Victoria is very beautiful." (Times photo).

Noon Accident Injures Woman

Mrs. Meryl Mauro, 339 Island Highway, was reported in "good" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today following a car accident at Fort and Vancouver at about 12:15 p.m.

Her injuries were not thought to be severe.

It was reported the car had swerved to avoid striking a child and had been in collision with a pole. The car was heavily damaged.

Mrs. Mauro was taken from the car to hospital in a city police traffic patrol car.

Red Feather Quarter Mark Passed Here

Red Feather campaign passed the 25 per cent mark at noon today in the 10th day of the 19-day drive for $203,000.

Officials report a spirit of optimism that the target figure will be surpassed. Today's total was $51,363.

Mrs. R. A. Dykes, chairman of the huge residential canvass which employs some 700 volunteer canvassers said: "It's early to say; we have just started. But our workers are pleased with the householders' reception and returns are slowly but surely mounting. Many canvassers are yet to be heard from."

ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Colm Nelson, father of the deceased, was in a "state of shock" when he reported Nelson had died as a result of a fall over a cliff.

Today he testified under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act.

Ducharme said it was at Nelson's suggestion they went on the hunting trip. Each carried a 22 rifle.

He said they were climbing the only trail from the valley to the top of the cliffs when he told Nelson that he "could not make it."

Nelson went higher and Ducharme handed the two rifles up to him. Nelson, he said, then lowered one of the guns and "told me to grab hold so he could pull me up."

"He had hold of the barrel and I the butt and when he pulled off, I pulled the gun went off," said witness.

Ducharme said he twice asked Nelson: "What's wrong, Bud?" Each time Nelson replied "nothing."

Nelson "then started coughing and fell over the cliff," he said.

Ducharme said he went down to where Nelson had landed, about 80 feet below, and found him "moaning and blood coming out of his mouth."

Witness said he told Nelson he was going for help. But he became lost in the rugged country and it was some time before he reached Nelson's house.

Daisy Nelson, wife of the deceased, said Ducharme kicked on the door twice and that when she opened it he fell at her knees.

"He said Bud had fallen off the cliff. He was in a shocked condition and crying," she told the coroner.

Friday Set For Saanich Decision

Saanich Council has called a special meeting Friday at 7:30 p.m. when it is expected decision will be reached on application of the B.C. Electric Co. to string high voltage transmission lines through residential districts.

The meeting will be at Royal Oak Municipal Hall and is expected to be attended by a large delegation of ratepayers who have been fighting the project over the last seven months.

Route of the power line has never been disclosed officially, but the Times learned from reliable sources today it will cut the Braefoot veterans' subdivision and skirt other residential areas.

It is understood the general route of the power line is as follows:

From Goward substation on Interurban Road in an easterly direction to Wilkenson Road, crossing near Miller Street and continuing easterly to North Quadra, crossing in the vicinity of Saanich Health Centre; then skirting the southerly boundary of the old Rithet estate, continuing to Blenkinsop or Lost Lake and crossing Blenkinsop Road in the vicinity of Mount Douglas Crossroad; continuing through Braefoot veterans' subdivision to Cedar Hill Road, crossing near the intersection of Arrow Road; then down to Shelbourne Street.

ON STEEL TOWERS

The B.C. Electric plans 135,000 volt line, strung on steel towers, from its Goward substation on Interurban Road to a new substation planned on Shelbourne Road near Ruby Road.

The new station would serve Gordon Head, Ten-Mile Point areas as well as Oak Bay and sections of the city.

Saanich residents object to the plan, arguing the line running through the municipality over a 175-foot right-of-way, would be unsightly and devalue property.

Also, they claim it would hurt television and radio reception.

Saanich Town Planning Commission has recommended council reject the application.

Saanich Voters' Association was formed specially to fight the power company's plan.

Both the commission and the association have advocated the line be run underground, but the company claims it would be too costly.

New Agent Named By CNR Express

J. B. Sutherland has been appointed express agent, Canadian National Railways, at Victoria. He replaces Frank Snow, who retired recently.

Mr. Sutherland comes from Fort Frances, Ont., where he has been express agent since 1948. He started with the CNR in 1920 as express department porter in Regina.

TIMES ASK THE

Q.—On the colored tiles in the sidewalk at the corner of Blanshard Street and Princess Avenue, the name is spelled Prince's. On the white name posts it is spelled Princess. Why is that?

A.—The first east-west street north of there is Queen's Avenue, and farther north is King's Road. It is believed at the city hall that when the sidewalks were being laid, workmen, or perhaps their foreman, were confused and assumed the street had been named for a prince. When the wooden signposts were put up the error was corrected.

Q.—Will you kindly tell me where we can apply to get financial help for our daughter, a post-polio case who is undergoing orthopedic surgery to correct deformities. We believe the Kinsmen have a fund (which we subscribed to during the polio drive last year), but do not know the address.—Mrs. G.B. A.—You should communicate with Mr. F. L. SHOPPING GUIDE

Make Like Pierrot, Gals,
In This Combination Suit

By PENNY SAVER

I'm going to call it my Pierrot suit! Reason's simple—it's just like one of those funny one-piece Pierrot costumes with pantaloons legs, only it's made of silky eyelet jersey and lace. I guess it's really a combination nightie-pyjamas, because the top is just like a nightgown. It's got a delightfully-elasticized neckline that can be left in a scoop, or pushed off the shoulder for fun, trimmed with a half-inch lace ruffle. So are the tiny puff sleeves.

At the waist my Pierrot suit is elasticized, too, and fits snugly. Then, instead of flaring into a pretty nightgown skirt as you'd expect, the bottom half becomes pantaloons which are elasticized at the ankle, leaving about two inches of ruffle, trimmed with half-inch lace to match the top. You have to try one on to really appreciate how becoming it is. Fabric and colors (shell pink and dusk blue) are truly feminine. Lace on the pink one is white and on the blue, black.

Trust me to think first of how pretty it is, when actually the most important feature of this suit is its practicability. Wear one and you'll see what I mean when I say it doesn't "ride up" as a nightie does and doesn't separate like pyjamas do.

And before I forget, I'd best give you instructions for putting it on. Quick as a wink you can jump into your Pierrot suit... from the top! Yep, that's the real reason the neckline is elasticized... and not for glamour at all, as I thought at first.

You can't go wrong with this, when all you have to pay is $5.95. Don't bother to ask the salesgirl about sizes, because there's just one... to fit everyone.

While we're on the subject of night apparel, I might as well tell about a three-piece TV set, selling for $10.95... complete!

That's right, and I wish you could see the materials... nylon taffeta and satin. That's WHY GROW OLD?

Gain Weight and Improve
Posture to Beat Fatigue

I said yesterday that extreme underweight and poor posture are two important factors in fatigue. Increasing our energy and decreasing fatigue is so very important if we wish to live with enthusiasm.

Think of the difference between the way living seems on those days when you are bursting with pep and on those when you feel exhausted. There is absolutely no comparison!

When a woman is very thin she does not have enough fat to support the organs or protect the nerves properly. If you have too little abdominal fat the abdominal organs may not function correctly because they have slumped out of place, due to the absence of this supporting fat.

If you are underweight you should make every effort to gain and should take mild exercises to strengthen the abdominal muscles. The very thin person should wear an abdominal support of some kind.

Poor posture is another cause of fatigue. When you slump you crowd the internal organs, your oxygen intake is decreased and you place strains on muscles and ligaments. You may find yourself in a vicious circle because fatigue leads to poor posture and poor posture leads to fatigue.

If this is the case you will have to pull yourself out of this situation with real and methodical effort. Try to improve your posture, wear an abdominal support, gain weight, take mild exercises, a daily walk if nothing else. Deep breathing is helpful. If you are thin and tense always have one hot dish at every meal in order to relax your digestive tract. Try to avoid fatigue by taking short rest periods during the day. If you will relax completely, even 10 minutes will refresh you. Do not allow fatigue to mount during the day. Keep it under control with these little rests. Try the following exercise for relaxation and posture.

Kneel on both knees. Let the head drop forward as you lean forward and place the fingertips on the floor as far out in front of you as possible. Very slowly begin to straighten up. Do this so gradually that you feel that you are doing it one vertebra at a time. As you straighten the spine, drag the

Galloways at Wiesbaden, Famous German Resort

Edith and Roger Galloway are touring continental Europe, and in this letter to Mrs. Galloway's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McGill, Tattersall Drive, Edith tells of their first experiences in Germany:

Here we are in Wiesbaden. Do you have the map out so you can spot us? It is on the Rhine, just a few miles from Frankfurt.

We arrived after a very nice trip from Amsterdam to The Hague (where we saw Queen Juliana open Parliament), then on to Rotterdam, Antwerp, Brussels, Bastogne, Luxembourg, Trier, up the Mosel River which was absolutely beautiful to Koblenz (spelled Coblenz, depending upon what kind of map you're looking at). Then from Koblenz we drove slowly down the Rhine to Wiesbaden.

We're certainly lucky to be staying with friends, here... it's good for our budget! They are Americans, a Major Louis Demos and his wife, whom we first met in a little town in northern Sweden. We met them again while in Stockholm and they invited us to stay with them if we came through Wiesbaden, where Major Demos is stationed at the United States Air Force Headquarters. We went shopping with them and they urged us again to visit them, so here we are.

Saline Springs

The first evening we got here, they took us all around the city. It is quite beautiful... about 250,000 population, and is world-famous for its saline springs. It wasn't hit too hard in the war, but still has some scars.

Since it is in the American Zone it has been built up quite a bit... not like Mainz, which is just across the river and in the French Zone. Mainz was terribly bombed out and still has only a few new stores and buildings.

Wiesbaden, in addition to being a famous health resort, is known for its festivals... operas, theatre productions, symphony concerts and museum exhibitions.

Because of the hot springs, the climate is quite mild and it gets only a few days of snow in the winter.

When we talked to the Demos', we made the remark that we thought it would be fun if we could get jobs and live over here. Major Demos said he knew of a legal position open to a civilian... you never know!

There's a hat for every occasion at Minnie Beveridge Millinery... from go-everywhere cloche models and berets to diminutive tea hats for afternoon dressup.

The tea hat is something new at Minnie Beveridge's, and is designed to fill the need for a hat less glittering than the cocktail hat, yet tastefully dressy for afternoon teas and formal afternoon wear. You will instantly approve of the velvets and velours, the new high colors and white... and the shapes which have so much individual charm.

A casually correct cloche in a bright color will add the dash of sparkle to your tweed coat you want, and because it's made from finest French velour, it is rain resistant. Cloche models come in all of the season's high colors, and are priced from $6.95 at Minnie Beveridge Millinery.

The beret is still the perennial choice of smart women. It performs the duty of a hat in a chic, breezy manner... ideal headgear for the woman who doesn't like much hat, but desires an accent to her ensemble.

A marvelous hair-do protection, the beret clings to the head whatever the weather. In high color tones, Minnie Beveridge has an extremely large selection of berets to show you this season.

Remember to see the exclusive models too—special designs for fall and winter wear—at Minnie Beveridge Millinery, 778 Fort Street.

Girl Told Fiance Is Already Married

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

There is an old saying which holds just as good today as it did generations ago. It is, "Marry in haste, repent at leisure." A young woman writes:

Hurlock

(Q)—"I am engaged to be married in two weeks. People have begun to tell me that the boy I am going to marry is already married. They say his wife is in another city. I was there with him, before we were engaged, and he never went to see anyone but his family who also live there. I lost my job because I love him so much and I have few friends because I love him. Should I forget him or go ahead and marry him?"

(A)—You should not do either at this time. Instead, you should postpone your wedding and take definite steps to find out how much truth, if any, there is in what people say about your fiance.

Go to your pastor and tell him what people say about his having a wife in another city. Through his church connections he can have the pastor of one of the churches in the city where your fiance's family lives investigate to find out the truth about his marital status.

Until his record is clear, you certainly do not want to take a chance of becoming involved in a case of bigamy. It would be a heart-breaking situation for you and one you would never forget.

Tell your fiance what people have told you about him and ask him what has given rise to such gossip. You should be able to tell from his reactions to your questions just how much truth there is to what you have heard. This, combined with what information your pastor can get for you, should enable you to decide on your next step.

As you love this man so much, you should not forget him easily nor would it be fair to him to condemn him falsely by acting only on the stories you have heard. Nor would you be fair to yourself to go ahead with the marriage when there are any doubts in your mind. That is why you should wait and see.

As a special service to our readers, Dr. Hurlock has written a 64-page booklet, "You and Your Problems." For your copy send 15 cents in coin with a self-addressed stamped envelope to this newspaper.

As Good As Hands

Allan Piper, 44-year-old former army captain who lost both his hands in a grenade explosion in 1942, built this dolls' house and many other pieces despite his handicap. Mr. Piper, deputy chief service operator of the Dominion Command of the Canadian Legion, makes this intricate work his hobby. He maintains "there are things I can do that people with normal hands can't." (CP Photo).

Arson Suspected In Vancouver Fire

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fire wardens were investigating the possibility of arson Wednesday night in connection with a fire which broke out in a suite above a downtown store. The owner of the building, Mel Goldberg, told police he had served an eviction notice on a couple living in the apartment where the fire occurred. Occupants of other apartments in the block were forced to flee as smoke seeped from the locked suite. Damage was minor.

St. Roch Presented To Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — The sturdy RCMP schooner St. Roch was officially presented to the Vancouver park board Wednesday for enshrinement in Stanley Park.

The 80-ton vessel, conqueror of the northwest passage and first ship to circumnavigate the North American continent, was first presented by the RCMP to the City of Vancouver, which in turn transferred it to the custody of the park board.

Built in Vancouver in 1928, the St. Roch completed her last voyage Tuesday when she arrived here from Halifax via the Panama Canal.

One-Man Kon-Tiki Expedition Turns Up Off Somoa After Four Months Adrift

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters) — A cutter swept the seas around the Samoan island of Tutuila today for a 62-year-old American who radioed "need help to land" after drifting 6,000 miles across the Pacific on a raft to better the fabled Kon-Tiki exploit.

A four-hour search failed to sight the bobbing "Seven Little Sisters" manned by William Willis of New York.

Earlier in the day Willis broke a four-month radio silence when a message was picked up by an amateur radio operator in the Cook Islands. "All is well. Raft position 20 miles from Tutuila. Need help to land."

The operator passed on Willis' message to Pago Pago, capital of American Samoa, on Tutuila.

Long and Short of Animal World

"Why, Grandma, what a big tongue you have!" might well be the reaction of this tiny kitten which went exploring in the London zoo. The cat kept away from her distant relatives, the lions and tigers, but went boldly into the enclosure of Grumpy the giraffe. Grumpy turned out to be a friendly enough fellow, as this picture shows, but the kitten didn't like it when he began licking his lips. Kitten need not have worried: Giraffes are herbivorous.

Ultimate Marriage Tangle Makes Child His Own Father

BONN (AP)—An amazing tangle of family relations in which a child theoretically became its own father, was officially reported here today. The west German government information bulletin said a court had to unravel this situation: A couple with one child obtained a divorce and the man remarried his own mother-in-law. As the husband the grandmother of his child he became the grandfather of his own child, while the grandmother was also the child's stepmother. The child's mother, being the daughter of the new wife, became sister of her own child. The court chairman observed: "Nothing can stop us from going right on with this until we have shown that the child as a grandchild and child of its father is also its own father."

Added Costs Threaten Vital Forest Industry

Price-Line Must Be Held to Keep Markets, Combat New Materials, Convention Warned

Canada's forestry industry, second only to agriculture in economic importance, cannot absorb additional costs, members of the Canadian Institute of Forestry were told Wednesday afternoon at their 46th annual meeting here.

Ed Bonner made the statement while reading a paper prepared by W. J. LeClair, secretary-treasurer of Canadian Lumbermen's Association, on the topic, "Domestic Markets." He said Canadian lumber depends upon its export markets for existence, 7.5 billion board feet out of its 9.25 billion production being sent to foreign markets annually.

Lumbering, the "most competitive business in the world," faces increasing competition from pre-stressed concrete and steel, and present prices just will not bear additional cost. In view of their position, lumbermen need collective bargaining and co-operation between themselves and government, it was suggested.

Oriental Market 'Enormous'

Speaking on world-wide markets of Canadian forest products, B. B. Gattie, general manager of Western Forest Industries Ltd., drew attention to the uncertainty of the global market.

Looking ahead 100 years he wondered what Canada's and the world's population would be "always granted peaceful existence and no third world war with atomic destruction."

The development of the huge oriental population may mean an "enormous consuming market" and "a natural geographic market for B.C.," he said.

Mr. Gattie foresaw new processes for wood pulp, including food and precast lumber to standard requirements.

Another convention group discussed "integrated utilization" of all wood produced. Wm. McMahon, vice-president of Canadian Forest Products Ltd., said the important things in this aspect of business management were:

"1. That every piece of wood that will pay its way is taken from the forest;
"2. That the wood be manufactured so as to give its greatest profit."

He gave credit to the hydraulic barker and the whole-log chipper, saying: "Had it not been for these two developments, the chemical pulp and newsprint mills in British Columbia would this year have required 100 million feet board measure more than they actually will use."

FLASH! STAND BY FOR FLASH

WASHINGTON (UP)—The army has issued a new form for notifying higher headquarters of an atomic, biological or gas attack.

While the form is going through channels, however, the army suggests it might be a good idea to send headquarters a "flash report" first.

BEFORE QUITTING

Nehru May Stay 6 Months

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Political observers predicted Wednesday night that Prime Minister Nehru will stay in office for at least six months.

Nehru told state leaders of his governing Congress party in a monthly letter Wednesday he felt stale after seven arduous years as prime minister and party president and would like to relinquish his "present routines" in order to regain his "freshness."

But he made it clear he does not "propose to act in a hurry" and is not thinking "in terms of final and irrevocable decisions." In fact, with an eye focused on the future, he emphasized that his "not being prime minister will not put an end to my close association with governmental development and similar activities."

The 64-year-old prime minister said he thinks he is fundamentally healthy "both in mind and body," but nevertheless has made up his mind not to stand for re-election to the party presidency at next month's annual convention.

Some observers viewed the letter as only part of Nehru's political strategy to strengthen his position by threats of resigning.

TO SUCCEED EDEN?—Harold MacMillan has been mentioned as a possible successor to Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden. MacMillan is at present Britain's Minister of Housing and Local Government. The shift may take place because Eden at present holds three major positions.

RUGGED: In Boston, Mrs. Martha A. Bense, 84, fell 15 feet yesterday when the fire escape outside her home collapsed.

When an ambulance arrived Mrs. Bense stood up, brushed the dust from her dress and said:

"It's all right. All I want is a cup of tea."

Manitoba Land Value Down 15% Under 1953

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Winnipeg Free Press says 1954 prices for good grain land in Manitoba are down 15 per cent from a year ago.

The newspaper quotes a representative of one of Winnipeg's big real estate dealers as estimating the decrease at from $10 to $20 an acre. It adds:

"... He said buyers were paying 1/2 to 3/4 in cash for farms they purchased last year."

Now, the usual down payment is a third of the total price.

"He said the present lower price for Manitoba farm lands was a short-term rather than a long-term trend and Manitoba farmers were not eager to sell out."

Dr. Sol Sinclair, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Manitoba, said the lower prices for farm lands are short-term.

"In the short run, it will be a buyer's market for the next year or two," he said. "But in the longer term, investment in land is a pretty good thing."

LAUGHTER BUT NO JOB

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP)—Paul E. Williams, 19, went job hunting yesterday carrying a sign which read: "I'm a bird dog. Need a job quick."

The sign got a lot of laughs but no job for Williams.

Saanich-City Dispute Based on 1873 Law

An 81-year-old B.C. law may bring City of Victoria and Saanich Municipality into court as litigants.

The 1873 enactment is basis for Victoria's refusal to pay local improvement tax on land it owns in the vicinity of East Saanich Road, north of Haliburton.

And Victoria's refusal, according to Saanich Reeve Joseph Casey, blocks municipal plans to install water mains to tax-paying properties in the area, although the city has made it plain it has no objection to the pipe line crossing its property; its only objection is to bearing the property's proportion of the line's cost.

Authority to sue the city was asked of Saanich councillors Tuesday night, but decision was delayed when Mr. George Austin was obdurate.

The 1873 law, according to Reeve Casey, gives the city water rights on lakes within a specified distance from the Victoria city limits. It is this law that puts Elk Lake within Victoria's control and makes it the only lake in the province over which, said Reeve Casey, the provincial waters rights department "didn't have some say."

Saanich and Victoria legal advisers have divergent views, the reeve reported. The question of Victoria's claimed exemption "will have to be settled in a court sooner or later."

Sparking the council discussion was a request from G. F. Aitken, 4967 East Saanich Road, asking for extension of water mains from Haliburton north along East Saanich Road.

35% UBC Students Working Their Way Through College

VANCOUVER (CP)—More than 2,000 University of British Columbia students are working their way through college this year.

John McLean, university personnel director, said Wednesday that 1,918 male students and 137 female students were solely responsible for financing all their own university expenses.

Another 1,123 males and 284 females were responsible for all expenses except room and board.

Of 5,700 students registered this year, about 1,400 are women.

Students working their way through are managing to finance their education through summer jobs ranging from waiting table at restaurants to gold mining in Yukon camps.

Others are working part time as night janitors, bookstore clerks or assistant instructors marking other students' examinations and essays.

JUST For The RECORD

COINCIDENCE: In Denver, James Arthur Dickens, 28, was convicted in 1949 of rifling an auto after police found his air force identification tags in the car.

In 1952 he was convicted of the same offense when his wallet was found in another rifled car less than a week after he was released from prison.

Yesterday Dickens was arrested after his three-day-old parole papers were found beside a rifled car.

NEAT: In Montreal a restaurant reported brisk business today after supplying customers with plastic mittens so they can pick up chicken without getting their fingers greasy.

ERRATA: In San Francisco butcher Willie Lee reported to police yesterday he mistakenly gave an unidentified customer a paper-wrapped bundle containing $5,500.

Lee said he held off reporting the incident 24 hours hoping the customer would return the receipts.

COMFORT: The Chicago Bible Society has announced it will replace free any Bible damaged in the city's weekend flood.

"We don't want any home to be without the comfort of the holy scriptures in these trying times," the Rev. Don Norman, executive secretary of the society, said.

HOME RULE: When the new frontier between Trieste and Yugoslavia was set down by the London Italo-Yugoslav settlement, it cut through a farmhouse, it was discovered today.

The yellow painted line set down by U.S. and British army engineers cut the farm in two, leaving an olive grove, one room and kitchen under Italian administration and two rooms, stables and a backyard under Yugoslav rule.

Year From Retirement, Man Killed in Lock Gate

CORNWALL, Ont. (BUP)—Paul H. D. Clarke, 65, a lock-master on the Cornwall Canal, was killed early today after his clothing caught in the operating mechanism of Lock 21, one of only two locks on the canal not operated by remote control.

Clarke, due to retire next year after 26 years' service with the department of transport, was operating a valve on a lock gate after the freighter Weyburne had cleared when his coat caught in a whirling shaft. The victim's mate, A. D. Mc-

Millan, was stationed at the west end of the 270-foot lock when he heard Clarke cry for help. By the time he reached him, Clarke had been crushed to death in the mechanism.

SUSPENDED
QUEBEC (CP)—Eddy Danny-luck, 18-year-old defenseman from Glace Bay, N.S., has quit the Quebec Frontenacs after being suspended for refusing to play a scheduled game, coach Phil Watson announced Tuesday.

James Mason Decides To Quit Movie Acting

British Star, Tired of Being Hack Actor, Says He Intends to Become Writer-Producer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Film star James Mason announced last night he is quitting movie acting. The famed Thespian, a leading candidate for an Oscar nomination for his work in "A Star Is Born," said he was retiring because he considered himself a "hack actor."

"I never wanted to be an actor in the first place," the British-born star said. "I went on the stage with the recognition that I could act well enough and could make a living at it. Actually, I've never been a dedicated man with a burning desire to act. 'I've become a television master-of-ceremonies by profession and a film producer by inclination."

Mason said it was a "very irksome thing" to be a Hollywood actor in that he had to make two or three pictures a year—good or bad—when most actors could find only a single decent picture a year.

The handsome, dark-haired leading man left England in 1948 to accept Hollywood offers. He was on the verge of quitting his acting career when he was cast in "Odd Man Out." This time he says he's through for good and it would take a greater role than he has ever played to get him to change his mind.

"That picture justified my being a movie actor," he said. "I've been a hack actor and done some pretty crummy films along the way."

"I knew I didn't have enough talent to become a writer, so I became an actor. Now I believe I have enough know-how—in place of talent—to become a writer-producer."

FANS OUT—Petition in bankruptcy was filed Wednesday by fan dancer Sally Rand who listed among her $950 assets four used fans valued at $25 each. She reported liabilities totalling $2,047,380.15, most of which involve a $2,000,000 suit against her growing out of a corporation dispute.

DISTINGUISHED BROTHERS—William James, the American philosopher who died in 1910, was a brother of the author Henry James.

B.C.'s Oldest Organ Still Doing Service

Recitalist at Church's 80th Anniversary Will Play Instrument Given By Douglas

A 141-year-old pipe organ, gift to the Church of Our Lord here 80 years ago by Vancouver Island Governor Sir James Douglas, will be played in recital by J. Ingram Smith Sunday, October 24 at 8.30 p.m. marking the church's 80th anniversary.

Douglas attended the church from 1874 to his death in 1877. The organ, oldest in B.C., was built by Thomas Appleton of Boston, England, in 1813. About 1870 the organ was rebuilt and sent to San Francisco, but was aboard a vessel that was wrecked.

Sir James salvaged the big crates in which the organ was packed and offered it as a gift to the Church of Our Lord. It has been used ever since.

About 20 years ago the late Chandas Dix added new pipes and improved the action, and the organ is now in the care of Stanley Haddon who services many of the city organs.

Among selections to be heard at the recital will be a composition by Mr. Ingram Smith entitled "Sunset on the Olympics," a tone picture suggesting the placid waters of the Strait with the Olympic mountains in the background.

TUC Accuses B.C. Government Of Disregarding Labor Act

VANCOUVER (CP)—A delegate to the second annual convention of the Trades Union Congress of B.C. accused the provincial government Wednesday of disregarding the Labor Relations Act in its dealings with government employees.

Ed O'Connor, secretary of the Provincial Government Employees' Association, made the charge in support of a PGEA resolution demanding the government accord its own employees the same regulated bargaining procedure given other union workers.

Mr. O'Connor said the government has consistently refused to discuss bargaining rights with the PGEA and has used "favoritism" in hiring new employees.

"Surely it's against all the tenets of democracy when the government can't be forced to follow the rules laid down by its own Labor Relations Act," said Mr. O'Connor.

"Call it by any name you like, but that sort of thing is likely to lead along the road to Communism."

"It's a fine situation when workers can't meet with their employers, but can only make a plea to the cabinet. We can't discuss grievances and we have no rights to bargaining."

In supporting the resolution delegates from the B.C. Teachers' Federation and Hospital Employees' Federal Union warned that if the situation is tolerated, many organized workers will find themselves "in the same boat."

Other resolutions passed at the convention's opening session recommended legislation prohibiting blacklisting or discrimination against workers, union clauses that refusal to cross picket lines does not constitute breach of contract, revision of the Labor Relations Act to eliminate discrimination and penalties against unions, and a union campaign for a shorter work week.

Earlier, congress president James Barton said the "greatest challenge" facing organized labor today is the assurance of full employment for Canadian workers.

In the keynote address opening the meeting, the head of the provincial branch of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada said:

"We in organized labor are, and must be, dedicated to the proposition that in our Canadian democracy every able bodied man and woman is entitled to full employment at decent wages."

the Victoria Trades and Labor Council, said employment has deteriorated rapidly this fall, and added that the problem could be alleviated by curtailing immigration.

"It's all right to extol immigrants for working at two or three jobs, but look what it does to the Canadian worker," he said.

NEW DEVICE LETS PILOT JUMP FROM 50 FEET UP

LONDON (Reuters)—Pilots flying at more than 500 miles an hour now can bale out safely only 50 feet above the ground, and may soon be able to escape from planes flying as low as 25 feet, a spokesman of the Society of British Aircraft Constructors said today.

He said successful experiments were recently carried out here with an automatic self-ejector seat which shoots the pilot 50 feet up in the air before his chute opens.

Conventional parachute jumps are dangerous under 1,000 feet.

U.K. GOVERNMENT MOVES TO HALT STRIKE SPREAD

LONDON (UP)—The British government tonight stepped into the paralyzing London dock strikes in an attempt to prevent their spread to all of Great Britain.

British Labor Minister Sir Walter Monckton called on both employers and union representatives to meet him Friday.

The government intervened after leaders of the National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers Union (NASD) strike, which has idled 21,640 stevedores, threatened to extend it nationwide. Such a move could cut this island nation's lifelines as effectively as enemy submarines.

'HAZEL' ROARS NORTH

Carolinas Batten Down

MIAMI (UP)—A mammoth Atlantic hurricane, its winds up to 130 miles an hour, hurtled toward the Carolinas where residents were given only a few hours to prepare for the storm.

After cutting a swath across western Haiti, leaving many dead and hundreds homeless, Hurricane Hazel picked up speed and was expected to hit against the U.S. mainland tonight.

At 11 a.m. residents of the coast of North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia were warned that the mighty blow was only hours away.

A special weather bureau advisory issued at 2 p.m. (EST) placed Hurricane Hazel about 270 miles east of Melbourne, Fla. It was roaring along at between 25 and 30 miles an hour—express train speed for a tropical storm—in a north-northwesterly direction.

The hurricane was kicking up "phenomenal" high waves according to a radio report from one of the hurricane hunter planes in the area.

The biggest vessel reported in the storm's path was the luxury passenger liner, Queen of Bermuda, a British vessel with a speed of 19.5 knots.

Planes from the Coast Guard air station at Elizabeth City, N.C., took off shortly after noon to drop warnings to all surface craft in the inland waterway and offshore in the Carolinas area.

EISENHOWER 64 TODAY

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower is 64 years old today and is "enjoying excellent health."

Colorado golfing companions arranged a birthday luncheon for the president at Denver's Cherry Hills Country Club, and his wife invited a small group of close friends to a quiet celebration dinner tonight at a downtown hotel.

Canadian Proposal Approved

Vishinsky, Martin Discuss New Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia was reliably reported today to have offered to support a Western plan for five-power disarmament talks if the sponsors would accept some apparently minor drafting changes.

Diplomatic quarters said the Soviet deputy foreign minister, Andrei Vishinsky, had stated his position in a meeting with Health Minister Paul Martin of Canada, who laid the Western plan before the 60-nation political committee Wednesday.

Britain, France and the United States already have announced their support of the plan. For this reason, Martin was expected to consult them before accepting the Vishinsky amendments.

TWO CHANGES

The plan calls for reviving the sub-committee of the UN disarmament commission, which sought unsuccessfully last spring to break the East-West disarmament deadlock. Members of this group are Canada, Britain, the United States, Russia and France.

Vishinsky's amendments would make two changes, both designed to place greater emphasis on the latest Soviet disarmament proposals made Sept. 30. One of the amendments would change the title of the Western resolution to include a mention of the Soviet proposals. The other would mention the Soviet proposals specifically in directing the disarmament commission to study the arms problem once more.

The Austrian court and relatives of Hitler and Eva Braun, his bride of a day, have asked for the certificate to enable settlement of property claims.

Victim of Gangland Ride Lives to Tell Ironical Tale

NEW YORK (AP)—A gangland-style ride Wednesday night in Little Neck, on Long Island, ended with one man slain, another wounded, a third man held—and the self-described intended victim alive to tell the story.

Police said they found Dominick Sorrese dead of a bullet wound in the head; Rosario Marceca wounded in the chest with a slug from his own revolver; Andrea Bommarito, the driver, with a gun in his hand; and Anthony Governante with a rope around his neck.

Authorities said Governante told this story:

The three men invited him to drive over and see a mutual friend in Little Neck.

Governante got in the front seat of the car with Bommarito and Sorrese. In the back seat was Marceca.

While driving along, Bommarito suddenly spun the car into a field.

From the rear seat, Marceca crashed a length of iron pipe on Governante's head. As he screamed, Sorrese wrapped a length of rope around his neck and began to tighten it.

Shouting for help, Governante fought desperately. Then, he said, Marceca drew a gun and fired. Governante said he swung at the gun and deflected the muzzle. The gun went off and a bullet crashed into Sorrese's brain.

Again Marceca pointed the weapon at him, Governante said. Before he could fire, the latter said, he bent Marceca's hand around. When the gun went off, the bullet entered Marceca's chest.

Death of Sooke logger A. I. "Bud" Nelson, 22, was ruled accidental today after his 16-year-old hunting companion, Jimmy Ducharme, told a coroner's jury Nelson was struck by a bullet from a gun they were using as a rope while climbing a cliff.

VERDICT REJECTED

The jury's first verdict—accidental death—was rejected by Coroner E. C. Hart this forenoon because it did not absolve Ducharme specifically.

The recorded verdict blames Nelson's death on the deceased's carelessness and absolves Ducharme of all blame. Evidence showed that Ducharme, stepson of Thomas Mal-

Political Patronage Charged

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Charge that two provincial cabinet ministers used "political patronage" to fill government jobs was made Wednesday at the convention of the B.C. Trade Union Congress.

Lands Minister Robert E. Sommers and Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi were named in the charge leveled by E. P. O'Connor, secretary of the 9,000-member B.C. Government Employees' Association.

O'Connor accused the two ministers of "putting their own men in government jobs."

"They have blocked some normal appointments and have dispensed political patronage by installing men of their own choosing to fill the vacancies," O'Connor said.

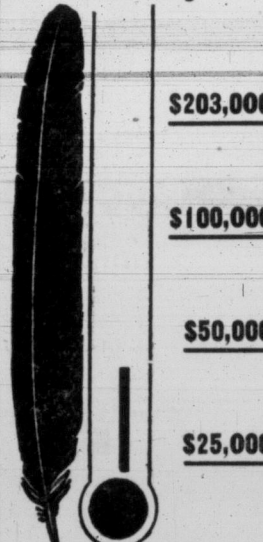

O'Connor's attack was touched off by a debate on a resolution which asked the TUC—the provincial wing of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada—to put pressure on the provincial government for full bargaining rights to B.C. civil servants. The resolution was unanimously endorsed. (See story page 31.)

ROCKET PLANE WOULD 'COAST' ACROSS U.S.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UP)—Bell Aircraft Corp. scientist, Dr. Walter Dornberger, predicted last night the development "in 10 years" of a rocket-driven commercial airliner that would hurtle from New York to San Francisco in 1 hour and 15 minutes.

"The engine of the commercial rocket airliner, in its New York-San Francisco flight, would operate only four and a half minutes," he said. "The plane would literally coast the rest of the way."

Storm Keeps Airmen's Bodies On Arrowsmith

Fierce Winds Hamper Operations

PARKSVILLE—A fierce mountain storm today hampered efforts to bring out the bodies of three airmen who perished in the crash of an RCAF Expediter on the slopes of a Vancouver Island peak.

Gale force winds up to 70 miles per hour whipped the tiny camp at the 5,100-foot level of Mount Arrowsmith forcing cancellation of plans to fly out the three bodies by helicopter and making hazardous the continuing search for the body of the fourth man aboard the twin-engine aircraft.

Air force officials said there was no chance anyone had survived the crash. Wreckage of the plane, that disappeared Sunday on a flight from Vancouver to Tofino on the west coast of the island, was found on the snow-covered peak Wednesday.

The five-man search party at the scene of the crash reported by walkie-talkie today that they had spent a large part of the night clinging to rocks and seeking shelter on the ice-covered pass where they had set up camp.

F.Sgt. J. R. Jameson, head of the RCAF search party at the crash scene, reported that about 35 to 40 men would be required to lower the bodies down the treacherous mountain slopes.

Sgt. Ldr. George Sheahan, the searchmaster in charge of the operation, said an eight-man party from the RCAF base at Comox had left for the crash scene to aid the party already there.

ANOTHER STRAIT CHALLENGER?

Race Flo, Marilyn 'Any Place' Says English Channel Swimmer

An English girl long-distance swimmer appeared today as a likely contestant in the proposed $10,000 match swim across Juan de Fuca Strait next summer.

Brenda Fisher, 27-year-old blonde English channel swimmer has issued a challenge to swim against Florence Chadwick, Marilyn Bell and Winnie Roach Leuzler at "any time, any place."

Brenda, twice winner of the women's section of the international English Channel swim, said she'd prefer to swim against them in the Channel because it's her home water, but told a Canadian Press interviewer in England she's prepared to meet them anywhere.

Status of next year's Juan de Fuca swim has not been finally settled, but Miss Chadwick, who challenged Marilyn Bell of Toronto to the $10,000 race, has made it plain she would not object to any other competitors.

Up to the present time the committee handling 17-year-old Marilyn's affairs has not given a final "yes" on the swim proposal, but has it under consideration. Miss Chadwick intends at attempt the Strait in 1955 whether there is competition or not.

However, there is every indication Miss Bell will take part in the Strait swim.

Today in Toronto, commenting on Brenda's challenge Marilyn said she is "not very much interested" in swimming the English Channel against the English girl.

But Marilyn added she is looking forward to swimming Juan de Fuca against Florence next year, which could mean that her committee has pretty well decided to accept Flo's challenge.

Brenda Fisher's entry would give the swim an even better international flavor, with the United States, Canada and Britain represented. Almost certain Winnie Roach Leuzler of Calgary will be invited after her game showing in the Lake Ontario swim.

The English girl issued her challenge to the other three through a British advertising agency. She said it is against any or all of them at a time of their choosing.

She has financial backing from Tom Carter, a brewer and sportsman of Grimsby, England. He is now in the United States to make arrangements. He has put up £1,000 (about $2,800) in prize money and expects to advance more with at least $10,000 as a total.

FOR CHARITABLE WORKS

Chaplin's 'Peace' Prize Goes to Catholic Priest

PARIS (AP)—Charlie Chaplin, who rose to film fame portraying the hapless hobo, said Wednesday he is giving 5,000,000 francs ($14,285) to aid a French Roman Catholic priest in work with the poor.

Sources close to the actor reported the money, or nearly all of it, comes from the 1953 peace prize of about $14,000 awarded Chaplin by the Communist-sponsored World Peace Council.

Added to the $10,000 already posted for the Strait swim, this would create a sizeable prize.

So far as Miss Chadwick is concerned, the Strait of Juan de Fuca is the logical place for the contest, since she is already committed to the swim here. She is expected to advise Mr. Carter of this.

The challenger from England claims to have already broken one of the English Channel women's records set by Miss Chadwick. She covered the France to England course in 12 hours, 42 minutes in the 1951 international swim, compared to Flo's record of 13 hours, 20 minutes in 1950. Flo still holds the England to France women's record of 14 hours, 42 minutes, established in 1952.

Brenda Fisher is the daughter of a retired Grimsby fisherman and wife of Patrick Johnson, a professional soccer player.

Chaplin, who has described himself as honored to receive that prize, arrived in Paris by train with his wife, Oona, from their home in Switzerland.

The contribution is to go to Abbe Pierre, a frail, bearded cleric who rose to prominence by leading a campaign for shelter and clothing for the destitute of Paris in the midst of a severe cold wave last winter.

Threatens U.S.130-MPH Storm Now Directed Toward Carolina Coastline

MIAMI (UP)—A mammoth Atlantic hurricane, its winds up to 130 miles an hour, hurtled toward the Carolinas where residents were given only a few hours to prepare for the storm.

After cutting a swath across western Haiti, leaving many dead and hundreds homeless, Hurricane Hazel picked up speed and was expected to hit against the U.S. mainland tonight.

At 11 a.m. residents of the coast of North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia were warned that the mighty blow was only hours away.

A special weather bureau advisory issued at 2 p.m. (EST) placed Hurricane Hazel about 270 miles east of Melbourne, Fla. It was roaring along at between 25 and 30 miles an hour—express train speed for a tropical storm—in a north-northwesterly direction.

The hurricane was kicking up "phenomenal" high waves, according to a radio report from one of the hurricane hunter planes in the area.

The biggest vessel reported in the storm's path was the luxury passenger liner, Queen of Bermuda, a British vessel with a speed of 19.5 knots.

Planes from the Coast Guard air station at Elizabeth City, N.C., took off shortly after noon to drop warnings to all surface craft in the inland waterway and offshore in the Carolinas area.

The Haitian vice-consul here reported today the town of Jeremie in southwestern Haiti was "destroyed" by hurricane Hazel. The fate of Jeremie's 11,000 population was not known.

The consul said there had been no official reports from Aux Cayes. He said he does not know how any accurate casualty reports could have come from Aux Cayes because all communications with the town had been cut off since Tuesday night when the hurricane struck.

Planes from the Coast Guard air station at Elizabeth City, N.C., took off shortly after noon to drop warnings to all surface craft in the inland waterway and offshore in the Carolinas area.

The plan calls for reviving the sub-committee of the UN disarmament commission, which sought unsuccessfully last spring to break the East-West disarmament deadlock. Members of this group are Canada, Britain, the United States, Russia and France.

Vishinsky's amendments would make two changes, both designed to place greater emphasis on the latest Soviet disarmament proposals made Sept. 30. One of the amendments would change the title of the Western resolution to include a mention of the Soviet proposals.

The other would mention the Soviet proposals specifically in directing the disarmament commission to study the arms problem once more.

Nelson Careless
Jurymen Decide

Death of Sooke logger A. I. "Bud" Nelson, 22, was ruled accidental today after his 16-year-old hunting companion, Jimmy Ducharme, told a coroner's jury Nelson was struck by a bullet from a gun they were both using as a rope while climbing a cliff.

In his panic immediately after the fatality Ducharme said Nelson fell from a cliff, and didn't mention the gun episode. The fatal wound was discovered Sunday when the body was being carried out of the woods.

"He (Nelson) had hold of the barrel and fit the butt, and when he pulled and I pulled the gun went off," the youth said today.

VERDICT REJECTED

The jury's first verdict—accidental death—was rejected by Coroner E. C. Hart this forenoon because it did not absolve Ducharme specifically.

The recorded verdict blames Nelson's death on "the deceased's carelessness" and absolves Ducharme of all blame.

Evidence showed that Ducharme, stepson of Thomas Malcolm Nelson, father of the deceased, was in a "state of shock" when he reported Nelson had died as a result of a fall over a cliff.

Today he testified under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act.

Ducharme said it was at Nelson's suggestion they went on the hunting trip. Each carried a .22 rifle.

He said they were climbing the only trail from the valley to the top of the cliffs when he told Nelson that he "could not make it."

Nelson went higher and Ducharme handed the two rifles up to him. Nelson, he said, then lowered one of the guns and "told me to grab hold so he could pull me up."

"He had hold of the barrel and I the butt and when he pulled and I pulled the gun went off," said witness.

Ducharme said he twice asked Nelson: "What's wrong, Bud?" Each time Nelson replied "nothing."

Nelson "then started coughing and fell over the cliff," he said.

Ducharme said he went down to where Nelson had landed, about 80 feet below, and found him "moaning and blood coming out of his mouth."

Witness said he told Nelson he was going for help. But he became lost in the rugged country and it was some time before he reached Nelson's house.

Daisy Nelson, wife of the deceased, said Ducharme kicked on the door twice and that when she opened it he fell at her knees.

"He said Bud had fallen off the cliff. He was in a shocked condition and crying," she told the coroner.
